SCORES FLEE RISING RIVERS IN CALIFORNIA

Hundreds Left Homeless By Floods Striking Northern, Central Sections.

RAINSTORMS CONTINUE

Thousands of Acres of Farm Land, 300 Homes Inundated Over Wide Area.

(By Associated Press)

SAN FRANCISCO—Vast sections of northern and central California lay under deep flood waters today and hundreds were homeless in the wake of a three-day rainstorm which the weather bureau said would continue another 36 hours.

Swollen rivers poured over thousands of acres of rich farm lands and backed into city areas, slides blocked major rail and highway arteries, and high winds whipped heavy seas against shorelines.

Officials of the state legislature considered calling a special session "for the purpose of taking such action as may be necessary under the unusual conditions caused by devastating floods."

National guardsmen were ordered by Governor Culbert L. Olson yesterday to help evacuate 70 families from homes in Yolo county, where the Sacramento river was over its banks.

State department of agriculture officials said California's rich agricultural industry suffered extensive damage.

The cities of Redding, in northern California, Napa in the north San Francisco bay region, and Santa Cruz, on the central coast, saw flood waters covering extensive areas.

The only apparent death blamed on the flood was reported at Redding, where Irene Clemens was missing after an auto in which she was riding overturned into a swollen creek five miles north of town.

Taken From Homes.

Despite the downpour, which totaled almost nine inches during a 24-hour period in some places, no one else was reported missing, although rescue workers removed scores from their homes by boats.

The Sacramento river, which courses hundreds of miles southward through one of the state's great valleys, was over its banks at several points, and weather officials reported yesterday "the situation appears to be grave" in the Sacramento valley.

At Redding, in the northern part of the valley, 300 homes were inundated in a low section by the river and the runoff from higher sections.

Heavy damage was done in residential sections of Napa, and last night water stood from one to three feet deep in the business district.

Welles to See Hitler On Friday

Special Car Provided By Italy Speeds Diplomat to Berlin Meeting.

(By United Press)

ZURICH, Switzerland—Sumner Welles, United States under-secretary of state, arrives today en route to Berlin for a conference with Adolf Hitler, one of the high points of his observation tour of Europe for President Roosevelt.

He comes from Rome and conferences with Premier Benito Mussolini, other high Italian officials, and foreign ambassadors, in a special railroad car provided by the Italian government. He will stay here tonight, leave tomorrow for Berlin, and arrive there Friday morning.

Welles' stay here had not been scheduled and was believed to have been decided at the last moment so that he could meet his old friend, Leland Harrison, United States minister to Switzerland.

Welles left in Italy the impression, reflected in Italian newspapers, that his mission was off to a favorable start; that although he had virtually no chance of making any immediate contribution to peace, he might be able to lay the groundwork for the time, a year or two hence, when a peace proposal might be opportune.

Welles talked with Mussolini for an hour and it was expected that they would meet again when he returns to Rome after his visits to Berlin, Paris and London. He had tea yesterday with Dr. Hans Mackensen, German ambassador to Rome, and also saw the British and French ambassadors.

Duce Impressed.

In Rome it was said that Mussolini was impressed with Welles' personality and that he probably would pass the word on to Hitler that Welles was a man with whom he could enter into thorough discussions. It was noted that Mussolini, who can be exceedingly curt Fighting in the Petsamo area has also increased. Center map shows the great distance, the length of Finland, between the two theaters of activity.

CITY TO OUST THIRD VETERAN

Sewage Plant Worker, 70, Told His Dismissal Will Be Effective Friday.

The third city workman past the age of 70 had been given notice of his dismissal today when Frank Miller, 70, sewage plant operator, was informed by Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton that he was through, effective March 1.

Miller's position is that of a licensed operator with a class D certificate from the state health department and is not under civil service.

Two other city employes over the age limit, S. C. LeMunyon, 71, and William Painter, 90, pumping station janitor, were given notice of dismissal during the past week. LeMunyon plans to oppose his dismissal, he said today.

Mayor W. J. Locke said that Miller was a political appointee of former Mayor Claude M. Hunter and is one of the few who remained when the Republican administration took office in January.

Miller's place will be taken by LaVerne Gutekunst, one of the two Class B laborers at the plant who has a Class D operator's certificate. Gutekunst, who has been at the plant for several years, also is a Democrat, and is under civil service.

Crafton said that Miller's place had to be filled by one of the two men at the plant because they are the only two that hold the necessary license.

Superior Court Justice Thomas H. Dowed told them: "I realize the strain on the youth of today. Perhaps there may be something behind it. However, the public must be protected, and we cannot allow them to take the law into their own hands."

COASTING 'OUT'

Crafton Says No More Streets to Be Blocked Off.

There will be no more street blockades this winter for coasting, Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton said today.

Crafton ordered Sturges street hill, south of Glessner avenue to be blocked off yesterday for coasting, but learned the blockade only increased the hazard because residents moved the barriers and drove on the hill in order to reach their homes.

He said when he went to the hill be found five cars there while dozens of children were coasting down. A slight swerve would have thrown the coasters into the paths of the cars, he added.

Crafton reported he had received from residents and drivers against a number of complaints yesterday the blockade.

Roosevelt Calls for Doubling Panama Defenses; Starts Home

(By Associated Press)

ABOARD U. S. S. LANG AT SEA—President Roosevelt headed for home today aboard the cruiser Tuscaloosa after telling newsmen the Panama Canal defense must be doubled.

He said that doubling the present number of planes and guns defending the canal is necessary for long-range defense of the vital link between the Atlantic and Pacific.

The president's press conference aboard the cruiser followed his thorough inspection of canal defenses.

Turning to other current topics, he said he had nothing to add to usual state department messages when asked to comment on Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles' European visit. Welles, he said, delivered some personal and unofficial notes for him.

The third-term subject popped up when a reporter asked whether he had any statement about March 4, the seventh anniversary of his first inauguration. The president smiled and replied in the negative.

Mr. Roosevelt said more guns and planes are needed at the Panama Canal to permit better opportunity to discover any attacking force—from the air, or by sea—at a much longer distance from the canal than ever had been provided heretofore.

He said the first thing to do is to finish the present program for anti-aircraft guns and planes.

Threw Reinforcements Into West Mannerheim Line; Reds Lose Heavily Again.

(By United Press)

HELSINKI — Finland threw reinforcements into the western end of the Mannerheim line today after fighting, according to an official communique, defensive actions on the endangered Karelian Isthmus front.

The communique said that the Red army suffered heavy casualties again in attacks on the Mannerheim line, where the Finns have been seeking to prevent a break-through toward the evacuated and almost demolished city of Viipuri.

There was much artillery activity on both sides, the communique said in describing Tuesday's developments.

Russian troops attacked at many points extending from the Karelian Isthmus to the far northern Petsamo front, the communique said, but were repulsed except where the Finns retired to prepared positions at Nautsi on the northernmost front.

Two Italian planes were shot down during the day, the communique said.

It added that Russian forces

Reports Indicate Berlin Would Guarantee Frontiers If She Gets Fuel and Grain.

(By Associated Press)

The plight of two neutrals, Rumania and the Netherlands, created new concern in Europe today as talk of sending an expeditionary force to relieve the besieged Finns increased in Britain and warfare in the air continued.

Germany accused the Netherlands of acting as a regular gateway for British aerial squadrons to reach the reich and asserted it was established definitely that British planes which scouted Germany last night had flown over the Netherlands.

Dutch anti-aircraft guns barked intermittently for five hours last night at unidentified foreign aircraft. The Netherlands, on the direct air route between Britain and Germany, has accused both belligerents of violating her neutrality.

Informed German army quarters reported today it was "established without doubt" that British planes crossed the Netherlands border into Germany last night at two points.

A British communique announced scouting planes had flown over Berlin, Hanover and bases at Kiel and Cuxhaven last night.

The downing of two German planes which took part in massed German flights over France during the past 48 hours was an-

Youthful Joyriders Steal Car, Elude Police In Chase Over Ice

Two boys and two girls stole an auto and then eluded police last night after a wild chase over slippery streets.

The car was owned by Municipal Court Clerk Ralph Hughes who joined in the chase in a police cruiser.

Hughes said that his wife had left the car in front of their home at 53 Douglas avenue, with the keys in the ignition and planned to return to it in a few minutes.

When she came out the car was gone. She telephoned Hughes who was downtown. He notified police and with Capt. John Miller and Patrolman Ora Fair started for Douglas avenue in a police cruiser. As they waited for the traffic light at Park avenue west and Mulberry, Hughes saw his machine passing the intersection, going south on Mulberry.

The cruiser turned and gave chase as the car sped around the corner at Mulberry and Second, down Second street past the City building and over to Main. The driver stopped for a traffic light at the intersection and the police cruiser swerved to avoid crashing into the machine.

Capt Miller jumped out and ran to Hughes' car, which was then opposite the cruiser. As Miller opened the door the driv-

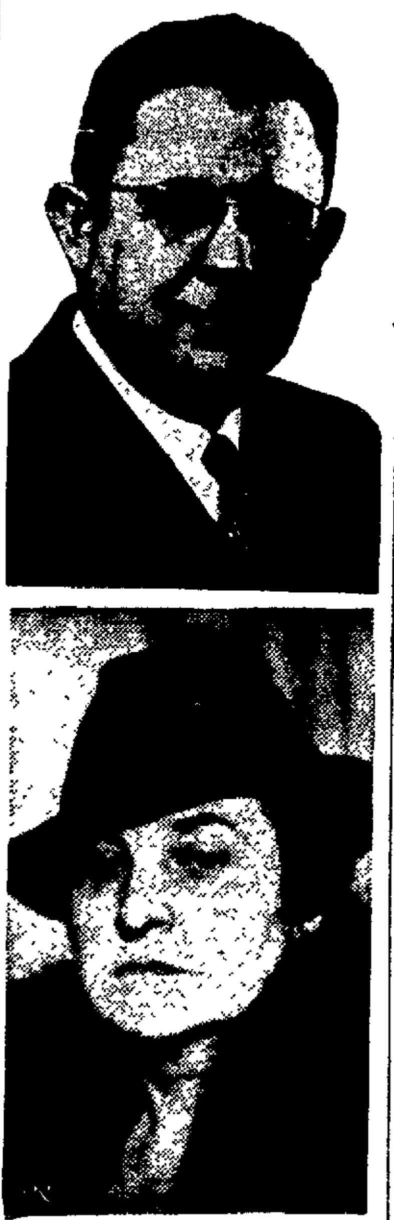
Go to Congress



Here are Ohio's two new Republican short-term representatives in congress. At the top, J. Harry McGregor, who defeated Byron B. Ashbrook in yesterday's special election in the 17th district. MRS. BOLTON IN EASY VICTORY

Congressman's Widow Elected to Succeed Him in 22nd by Margin of 16,500.

(News-Journal Special)

CLEVELAND — Wealthy, socially prominent Frances Payne Bolton was chosen Ohio's first congresswoman yesterday by voters of the 22nd district who handed her a 16,500 plurality over Anthony A. Flegler, Parma attorney.

Running on the Republican ticket in a normally Republican district, Mrs. Bolton was elected to succeed her late husband, Rep. Chester C. Bolton, with a vote of 40,882.

Flegler, the only Democrat ever to represent the district since its formation in 1914—he rode the crest of the Roosevelt landslide in 1936—polled 24,348 votes.

Mrs. Bolton will be the seventh woman member of congress. She accomplished what another woman, Judge Florence Allen, running as a Democrat in the same district, failed to do in 1932. Judge Allen, now of the U. S. Circuit Court of appeals, lost to Mrs. Bolton's husband that year.

Balloting in the three counties which comprise the 22nd district was as follows:

Cuyahoga: Bolton, 25,757; Flegler, 21,017; Lake: Bolton, 3,731; Flegler, 2,523. Geauga: Bolton, 1,394; Flegler, 808.

Mrs. Bolton is expected to leave for Washington within the next few days, as soon as her certificate of election is issued by the office of Secretary of State Earl W. Griffith. The unexpired term ends Jan. 1, 1941.

VOTE VIEWED AS BODY BLOW TO NEW DEAL

17th District Elects First Republican Congressman in 10 Years.

WINS 5 OF 6 COUNTIES

Both Candidates Lose Home Districts; McGregor's Majority Hits 4,483.

There was rejoicing today in the ranks of the Grand Old Party. From the ward leaders here to those high in the Republican party councils in the nation, they saw in the election yesterday of J. Harry McGregor the hand-writing on the wall for the New Deal next fall.

In what was considered by most political observers as a pivotal election eight months before the presidential election, McGregor, 43-year-old Cochocton county representative in the state legislature, carried five of the six counties in the district to win by a margin of 4,483 votes.

McGregor's victory over Byron B. Ashbrook, Johnstown banker and nephew of the late Congressman William A. Ashbrook, gives the 17th district its first Republican congressman in 10 years. Not since 1930 when Charles West defeated William Morgan has a G. O. P. standard bearer gone to Washington to represent the six counties in the district.

In winning yesterday, McGregor piled up a margin in every county but his own, Coshocton, which he lost by 358 votes. Ashbrook also lost his home county, Licking, by 992 votes.

The unofficial vote in the district gave McGregor 27,406 votes to 22,923 for Ashbrook. The dis-

Try to Force Showdown on $20,000,000 Loan to Finns

COALITION IN HOUSE DRAFTS BATTLE LINES

Democrats and Republicans in Bloc Seeking to Get O. K. on Fund to Buy Arms.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—A coalition of Democrats and Republicans attempted today to force a house showdown on the issue of granting Finland a direct loan of $20,000,000 or more to buy arms

Members of the bi-partisan group were seeking to eliminate the prohibition against arms purchases from the senate-approved bill authorizing a $100,000,000 increase in the export-import bank's capital.

Administration leaders expressed confidence, however, all amendments would be beaten and the loans restricted to the purchase of non-military supplies in this country.

Contrasting sharply with verbal bouquets for Finland's "courageous" stand against the Russians, yesterday's six-hour debate crackled at times with denunciations of the bill as a "cloak" for increasing the general lending authority of the export-import bank.

Rep. Eaton (R.-N. J.) proposed that the bank be allowed to lend both Finland and China funds for any purpose they desired.

Rep. Fish (R.-N. Y.) wanted to direct the bank to make a $20,000,000 loan to Finland and eliminate the balance of the proposed capital increase.

Rep. Williams (D.-Mo.), on the other hand, said that Democratic members of the banking committee were opposed to loans for military purchases because they were not in accord with "sound banking practice."

In the senate, which was in recess, interest still centered on the hearings on extending the reciprocal trade program.

Senator Bridges (R.-N. H.) rallied Republican opposition with the prediction that if his party fought the proposal, it could carry the west in the November election.

Bridges, a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, said a 9,500-mile trip through 10 western states had convinced him that the affect of the trade program on agriculture would be the chief political issue there.

Most Republican senators have indicated that they would oppose the extension approved by the house.

NLRB ELECTION ORDERED HERE

Board Calls for Vote at Ideal Electric After Dismissing Complaint Against Firm.

The National Labor Relations board today ordered an election among production employes at the Ideal Electric and Manufacturing company to determine whether the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers union, a CIO affiliate, shall be sole barganing agent for the plant workers.

The board in dismissing a complaint of unfair labor practices against the company, ordered the election held within 30 days, dispatches from Cleveland said.

Contending that a former regional director, James P. Miller had "erred" in his decision, the board, however, upheld his ruling because "effectice administration of the National Labor Relations act requires its agents to have the respect and confidence of employers."

Miller, now private labor relations consultant, was removed by the board a year ago after differendes over matters of policy. He testified against the board before a house committee in Washington.

The board found that Miller "erred" in agreeing that if the concern posted a notice it would not interfere with the right of employes to organize and "the board would not enter an order remedial of the unfair labor practices."

Miller's agreement "does not stop the board from the entry of such an order," the findings added.

"We believe, nevertheless, that the policies of the act will be best effectuated herein by giving effect to such an agreement," the board stated. "We shall enter an order that the complaint be dismissed."

The company normally employes more than 150 workers. The board directed that current employes and those laid off temporarily are eligible to vote in the election.

CLEVELAND KILLERS GET CHAIR FROM JURY AT WORK 72 HOURS

CLEVELAND—(INS)—One hundred and 15 days of life—maybe a little more—remained today for Joseph Di Marco, 23, and Anthony Cirasole, 29, who shot down and killed Edward Erdody, Cleveland furrier, Jan. 24.

The two Brooklyn, N. Y., gunmen were found guilty yesterday by a jury of seven women and five men who deliberated 24 hours and 50 minutes before returning a verdict to Common Pleas Judge Frank J. Merrick. The jury was out so long—including time they were locked up for the night and Sunday it had been 72 hours since they were charged—that newsmen and court attaches were mildly surprised at the verdicts, which carried no recommendations of mercy.

It had been guessed that the jury was deciding on a split verdict, the chair for one defendant and life imprisonment for the other. But in each case Judge Merrick read the verdict:

"Guilty of murder in the first degree."

The verdict automatically sends Di Marco and Cirasole to the electric chair unless their attorneys, who must file their appeals by tomorrow night, succeed in appealing the cases or secure new trials

Di Marco and Cirasole will be sentenced March 14, and then there is the statutory limit of 100 days before they can be executed in the electric chair at Ohio penitentiary. So they have approximately 115 days to live.

A prepared statement for all issued by Foreman E. V. Long said:

"We jurors have arrived at a verdict only after long and careful deliberation. Not any one of us has any doubt that we have returned the correct verdict."

After the verdict was read the decorum of the courtroom was broken by the hysterical outburst of Mrs. Frances Cirasole, wife of one of the defendants. In the corridor outside the room, she became hysterical, and two deputies led her, screaming, to the county jail hospital. Di Marco's mother, at church when the verdict was brought in, fainted when she heard it discussed on the street.

SET UP CLUB

Mansfielders Start Chapter of Co-Operative International.

First steps toward organizing a Mansfield chapter of Co-Operative club, International, were taken at a meeting of 15 Mansfield business men at the Southern hotel last evening with officials of the organization.

Representing the club organization were Clifton Acton, Dayton, field secretary, and Herbert S. Nonneman, Dayton, third international vice president in charge of extension.

Purposes of the club, whose international headquarters are in Kansas City, are to promote acquaintance and friendship, create higher business and civic principles and forward the business and social welfare of its members.

Tentative plans call for the chartering of the Mansfield club in mid-March.

State Opens Probe at Gallipolis Hospital

ACTION FOLLOWS JURY REPORT ON EMBEZZLEMENT

Sherwood Takes Steps After Indictment Names Former Finance Officer.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS—State Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood was to begin an investigation today into administration of the state hospital for epileptics at Gallipolis on the basis of a Gallia county grand jury report

The grand jury which last week indicted Byron Bodimer, former assistant finance officer at the hospital, on charges of embezzling $7,600 also charged in its report that "persons responsible for the administration of the institution have been guilty of gross neglect of duty"

The report did not specifically accuse Dr. George G. Kineon, superintendent at the hospital for 30 years, of neglect of duty, but it noted that he had been advised previously of irregularities. It also said that he evidently failed to take necessary measures then or to notify the welfare director.

Bodimer has pleaded not guilty to the charge of embezzlement and is at liberty under $2,000 bond

Sherwood said the welfare department had been responsible for Bodimer's arrest. He also said that failure to keep proper records was traceable to the former finance officer.

The welfare director planned to obtain a copy of the grand jury report to guide him in his inquiry into affairs of the institution.

The grand jury statement held that a person who was not an employe nor a patient illegally maintained a residence at the hospital It charged that an accounting was not kept in an institutional store selling to patients

It also said that traffic hazards had not been eliminated from driveways on the hospital grounds.

FAIR ENOUGH

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—On a recent evening in Washington, as Mrs. Roosevelt was about to enter a movie theater for the premiere of the Abe Lincoln show, there was a moment of consternation when it was discovered that the house was being picketed as a protest against a local Jim Crow ordinance or custom. It is my understanding that the picket line was lifted long enough to permit Mrs. Roosevelt to enter.

With the merits of this particular case I will not tangle, knowing too little about them, but I make bold enough to say that picketing has been overdone to the point of abuse and that, by many unfair and contemptuous impositions on the public, the picket line has lost sympathy and authority.

A notorious case was settled recently in Chicago. There a picket line which had been maintained for six years at the Edgewater Beach hotel, on the North Side, was suddenly withdrawn without any explanation to the public. The hotel management had nothing to explain.

Umbrella Mike Boyle, the business agent of the Electricians' Union, had issued a strike call back in 1931 as a result of some dispute whose merits never were clearly revealed and had maintained the line day and night, in bitter winter and blistering summer.

Picketing became an occupation with some of the trudging sentinels, and after some time the line became a joke Nobody paid any attention to it, and far from helping the cause of labor, the demonstration degraded into a cheap display of personal power by a professional unioneer and politician

It was a discredit to organized labor, and the final act was an insult to both the rank and file and the public. Apparently, there never was a genuine strike

The public does have an interest in picket lines A picket line is an appeal to the public to boycott a place of business on the ground that an employer has dealt unfairly with the workers That was the old presumption but it has been discredited in the last few years, and the disinterested individual has been given reason to feel his sympathy has been imposed upon.

Unions now put it up to the individual citizens to determine for himself the merits of every controversy represented by a picket line. But people are too busy for that, and in many cases the union agents are too secretive or too skilled in misrepresentation to permit of a fair understanding.

It is no more unfair to labor, with a capital L, to patronize an unfair employer than it is to boycott a fair employer whose place has been surrounded with a line of men and women in the prosecution of some jurisdictional row or racket.

If a fair employer is picketed, his employes suffer, but, worse than that, the customers discover that there are good picket lines and bad ones, and that in some cases anyone who wants to be strictly fair is morally obliged to walk through the line and buy at least a package of cigarets

In the Washington theater case the picket line was asking more than most people would be willing to grant. The Jim Crow tradition is not new, and the opening of a new show was no occasion for demanding snap judgment on a problem that has received much thought from the United States supreme court. And, anyway, the theater management shouldn't have been made the goat.

If unions and societies can throw picket lines around at will, and if the public doesn't exercise its right to discriminate, the picket line will develop into a blackjack, and this is not to say that it hasn't been used as such many a time ere now.

MANSFIELD high school cagers win district championships year after year, but they never have gone into one of these affairs as favorites.

Despite the fact that the Tygers have won the district diadem the last two years, Coach Vern Hoffman's men will not be ranked as the favorites this week.

Two years ago the Tygers were "under dogs," with Sandusky, we believe, the favorites. But Mansfield won the tournament.

Bellevue, coached by the present Tyger coach, was supposed to have been a "cinch" in last year's elimination, but Mansfield again won to upset the dope.

This week the Tygers go into the district tournament in Sandusky again rated as a team with only a "fair chance."

The favorite in this year's elimination is Fremont Ross, and according to the talk we've had with the newspaper boys in the other end of the district, Mansfield is not rated seriously.

Coach Vern Hoffman refuses to comment on the Tygers' chances due to their inconsistency, but intimated that his club might spring a surprise or two.

Doubt Tyger Team's Chances With Streaks.

SOME of the writing boys in the other part of the district even doubt whether the Tygers can get past the host Sandusky club Satuday night because they've heard that "Mansfield has lost a lot of ball games in recent weeks."

Hoffman does not under-rate the Blue Streaks, but, on past season records, the Tygers should duplicate the victory they scored over the Blue Streaks earlier in this campaign.

Mansfield won over Sandusky, 39 to 26, and the Blue Streaks suffered only three worse defeats. Tiffin Columbian whipped the Streaks, 53 to 35; Canton McKinley won over the Sanduskians, 54 to 40, and Bellevue took the measure of the tourney hosts, 45 to 30.

There is no reason why the Fremont Little Giants should not be regarded seriously in the district games, but there is a suspicion that the Tygers are not receiving the consideration that they deserve.

Fremont's record overshadows Mansfield's by quite a margin when victories and defeats are concerned, but the Giants did not meet the kind of opposition that the Tygers did this season.

Considering caliber of competition, Bellevue boasts of a record just as good as Fremont, we'd say.

Fremont has won 16 out of 18 games, the defeats being administered by Fostoria and Findlay, and Bellevue has a record showing few more defeats.

Tygers' Foes Stronger Than Tourney Rivals.

MANSFIELD'S record is not impressive when wins and losses are considered, but the fact that the Tygers met a class of opponents that none of the tourney teams can match is important.

Only in two of the Tyger defeats was the margin more than five points. New Philadelphia, one of the few undefeated clubs in the state, won by a nine-point margin and Hamilton trimmed the Tygers by seven points.

Ashland won over the Tygers by five points, Massillon by four, Canton McKinley by two and one and Columbus North by one.

Mansfield's record is more impressive than Fremont's against common foes. The Tygers whipped Sandusky, 39 to 26, and the Little Giants whipped the Blue Streaks 40 to 39 and 37 to 30. Mansfield trimmed Bellevue, 37 to 18, and Fremont took the same club into camp by a 36 to 31 count.

The records indicate that the dopesters might be wrong by belittling the Tygers' chances, but Coach Hoffman is satisfied. "The ball game's played on the floor, not in the newspapers," he contends.

Three games are on the opening night's schedule Friday, with Bellevue meeting Tiffin Columbian at 7 p. m., Norwalk facing Tiffin Junior Order and Fremont tackling Willard.

Mansfield meets Sandusky at 6 p. m. Saturday.

Rens Boast Stars

New York Team to Play Here Thursday Defeated Only Thrice This Season.

THE New York Renaissance cagers, holders of the world's professional championship and probably the greatest showmen in the game, will make their second appearance in the city this season Thursday.

Chuck Chuckovits and his Toledo Collegians will oppose the colored wizards of pass, dribble and shoot in the second tilt on a two-game program at Mansfield high school.

The Wesinghouse teams of the Mansfield and Lima plants will tangle in the preliminary game at 7:30 p. m.

The Rens will return with their regular troupe of All-Americans, the same cast which handily captured the Chicago professional cage tourney last spring and which has won 109 games while losing only three this season. Their all-time record reads: Won 1605, lost 241.

Chuckovits' crew will be intact, if not stronger than the combine which trimmed the City league All-Stars last spring.

It will be interesting to see what the eagle-eyed Chuck can do against the world's champions. Fans who watched Chuck tally 29 points against the home town stars last year believe the former Toledo U. star will reach two figures despite the caliber of opposition.

Among the former Toledo U. players to appear with Chuckovits will be Tom Edwards, Bill Jones, Charley Cupp, Dale Crowe, Jack Curran and Al Alverez. Here is the personnel of the Renaissance club:

EYRE "BRUISER" SAITCH: He's the former national colored tennis champion. Retains the same speed on the basketball court as he uses on the tennis court. Bruiser is very shifty for a big man, excellent as a floor man. He's the "spark plug" of the five.

CHARLES "TARZAN" COOPER: In his stocking feet measures 6 feet, 4 inches; he is regarded as one of the best center men in the game today. He is the pivot of all Renaissance plays and is instrumental in the perfection of the plays.

WILLIAM "WEE WILLIE" SMITH was the outstanding player of the Rens last season. Wee Willie is a Cleveland boy. Willie stands 6 feet, 5 inches and is one of the most colorful players on the court.

JOHN ISAACS, a graduate of Textile High school, New York City, was the unanimous choice of all sports writers as all-American high school center of Greater New York during the season of 1926-7.

WILLIAM "POP" GATES is without a doubt one of the greatest court players developed in New York City: Pop made basketball history at Franklin High school. During his last season which was 1937-8 Gates was captain of his quintet and was unanimously selected as the outstanding player of greater New York high schools.

PUGGY BELL: Another New York City boy is one of the best shots in the pro game. The sports writers rate him another Pappy Ricks, who for years was the outstanding shot on the Rens.

ZACK CLAYTON: A product of Philadelphia. A great defensive player and an excellent shot.

250 Scores Feature Tire League Bowling

Although starting out with 250 scores, Pete Grohol and Jack Thiedine of the Mansfield Tire league just passed the 600 figure to annex scoring honors at the Meder alleys last night.

Opening with a 257, Grohol, bowling with the Mill Room, followed with a 160 and finished with a 204 for a 621. Thiedine of the Truckers collected 259 pins in his first game, but dropped to 146 in the next game in his 604 series.

Sophia Meder was high in the scoring column with a 558 total, which included a 213 game.

Bowman Club Suffers Loss In City Meet

Bushnell, Carpenter Loom As Major Threats In High School Games.

Indications today point to a battle between Bushnell and Carpenter for the Grade School basketball tournament championship.

Bowman, a pre-tourney favorite, although it ran into trouble in losing a 28 to 18 decision to Brinkerhoff in an opening round game at Senior high last night, it still looms as a dangerous rival.

Bushnell, Grade School league champion, stepped into the top favorite spot, following its one-sided 35 to 13 win over Woodland. Carpenter became a leading threat by virtue of a 15 to 2 triumph over Newman.

Western topped West Fifth, 14 to 11, and Hedges turned back Prospect, 15 to 12, in the other first round tilts. It is a double elimination tourney and each club must suffer two setbacks before dropping out of the affair. Play will be resumed tonight with the finals scheduled for Friday night.

Bellville Cagers Meet McComb In Bid for Third Title at Carey Thursday.

By CHARLES MARTIN

FACED with the task of eliminating a quintet which has developed into a dangerous opponent in tournament play, the Bellville high court engineers are busy today oiling their scoring machine as they prepare to trek to Carey to participate in the second game of the sectional Class B tourney Thursday.

The Bluejays, who rattled the backboards at a point-a-minute clip in winning the county tournament championship, collide with McComb, Hancock county champion, in the second game at 8:30 p. m.

Meanwhile, a determined Lexington high combine, handicapped by lack of height in controlling rebounds, is marking time until it swings into action at 7:30 p. m. Saturday by tackling Fostoria St. Wendelin.

Bellville, if it eliminates McComb, must return to face either Harpster or Ada at 9:30 p. m. Saturday. Ada is one of the pre-tourney favorites.

Only one team in the sectional affair sports a better record than Bellville. It is Chatfield with 15 wins and one loss. The Bluejays have scored 17 wins in 19 games.

McComb played .500 per cent ball through the regular season, and then hit its stride by wiping aside the favorites in the county tourney.

Chatfield, Crawford county champs, demonstrated that it may be a leading contender by smothering Mt. Zion, 51 to 18, in the finals. Chatfield, incidentally, is in the lower bracket with Lexington.

Coach John Rees' Minutemen, performing in their first sectional classic since 1932, face a tough assignment in St. Wendelin.

The Fostoria Catholic school has dropped eight decisions in 20 games. St. Wendelin scored several of its wins against Class A quintets.

Mentor W. H. Miley's Bluejays averaged 35 points per game in the county affair, and with Capt. Bill Martin, lanky center, and Howard "Tick" Hamilton, forward, leading the way, hope to continue their scorching pace.

Not much is known about McComb, but it is reported to possess a fast-breaking attack.

Only the champion of the sectional tourney advances to the state Class B elimination.

A victory over St. Wendelin will send Lexington back against the winner of the Bluffton-Chatfield game at 9 p. m. Thursday, March 7.

Behind by a 6 to 2 count in the first period, the inmates trailed all the way. At halftime the invaders led, 13 to 12. Calhoun and Moore of the inmates, and Sellers of the visitors tallied 10 points apiece to share scoring honors.

Braves Alloted 10 Home Sunday Tilts

Ohio State League Schedule Gives Mansfield Club One Holiday Date.

MANSFIELD'S Braves will lift the lid and ring down the curtain on the 1940 Ohio State league season at the Fairground, according to the 130-game schedule released today by President Paul Shank of Toledo.

The Mansfield entry was also awarded 10 of the 19 Sunday dates, in addition to one holiday.

Joe C. Hartline, president of the Mansfield club, stated today that he thought Mansfield was treated very fairly in the allotment of choice dates.

Hartline also said that a request was made for only one holiday date as games on July 4th, Memorial day or Labor day have drawn poorly in this city in the past.

"It was compulsory to take one holiday date and we selected Labor day," the tribal chieftain explained.

The Braves will open their championship campaign one day ahead of the other inaugurals when they launch their season with Lima Wednesday, May 1. The Mansfield opener was originally scheduled for Friday, May 3, but it was changed at the request of Mansfield's owners.

Mansfield closes the campaign on its home field Sunday, Sept. 8, with Findlay.

The first home Sunday game is scheduled May 12 with Tiffin. The lone home holiday appearance will be made against Fremont on Labor day. The Braves will perform at Tiffin July 4th and at Lima on Memorial day. Holiday games are the only scheduled double-headers.

Home Sunday dates follow: May 12-26, June 2-16-30, July 7-21, Aug. 4-18 and Sept. 8.

Findlay will make three Sunday appearances at the Fairground, Fostoria, Lima and Tiffin two each and Fremont, one.

LOANS OVERDUE TO FCA MOUNT TO 94 MILLIONS

New, Liberalized Policy Shaped to Reduce Number of Foreclosures.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—Back to the Farm Credit Administration's new "liberalized" policy toward farm borrowers is a total of more than $94,000,000 in overdue principal and interest payments.

A considerable part of the $1,600,000,000 in Federal Land Bank and Land Bank commission loans are delinquent. The FCA lending agencies have foreclosed on farm real estate valued at $130,000,000.

The new policy announced in Birmingham, Ala., recently by Dr. A. G. Black, governor of the Farm Credit Administration, is designed to reduce the number of foreclosures and enable borrowers to pay out.

Wallace Ideas Prevail.

Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace and F. F. Hill, former FCA governor, disagreed upon the lending policy. Hill believed Wallace's ideas "unsound and dangerous." Wallace thought them the safest in the long run. He prevailed when Hill resigned.

Under Black, Wallace's ideas are being put into operation. They provide for no major changes in the making of loans, or in the handling of the bulk of loans already made upon which interest and principal payments have not proved a burden to borrowers.

But those who, because of drouth, insect pests or similar causes, have been unable to meet their payments will receive a helping hand. Black promised they will be "assisted as rapidly as possible by measures designed to keep them on their farms and protect them against foreclosure."

Applications for help are being received at the rate of 3,500 a week. The FCA already has reamortized loans of 75,000 borrowers and has approved reamortization for 55,000 others. In most cases annual payments on the principal have been reduced by spreading the loan over 20 to 30 years.

Three-Point Plan Set Up.

This, alone, is not adequate to meet conditions, Black said. He announced a three-point plan calling for suspension of second-mortgage commissioner loan payments until delinquencies on first-mortgage federal land bank loans are paid up; a variable payment plan under which payments vary from year to year according to income, and reduction of installments for a definite period.

The land bank commission has suffered relatively more than the Federal Land Bank from delinquencies. Commission borrowers are in arrears $33,165,000 in interest payments and $15,588,000 in principal payments, according to latest FCA figures.

Federal Land Bank borrowers are delinquent $35,808,000 in interest installments and $8,660,000 on principal. The land banks have loans totaling $1,910,000,000, and the commissioner $677,470,000. The commissioner, in addition, holds $700,000,000 in land bank bonds.

One of the most difficult problems which the FCA faces is the disposal of thousands of farms obtained by foreclosure. Federal land banks, which are the older, have $108,746,000 in real estate and the commissioner $20,632,000.

ORAL TESTS SET

6,000 In State Eligible For New Exams for Liquor Jobs.

Oral examinations for successful participants in written tests for liquor stores managers, cashiers and clerks will be conducted March 7 and 8 in Mansfield, the state civil service commission announced today in Columbus.

Chairman Gertrude Jones estimated that about 6,000 of the 9,770 applicants would be eligible for oral tests at Mansfield, Akron, Athens, Cambridge, Canton, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Dayton, Lima and Toledo.

The written tests were held here several weeks ago in an effort to establish an eligible list from which employes for the state liquor stores may be selected to replace about 500 provisional appointees throughout the state.

ILLEGAL SALE

Charged Against Dayton Man in Marysville Case.

MARYSVILLE, O. —(U.P.)— The trial of Samuel P. Sloan of Dayton, charged with violation of the state securities laws in connection with the sale of vending machines, will begin here today.

Sloane and two others, to be tried later, were charged with sale of securities which had not been registered with the state securities division, and with sale of securities without being licensed as a securities salesman.

COUNTY SEEKS TAX ADVANCE

Asks for $20,000 More From County Treasurer on Its Due Amount.

County commissioners today had requested an advance of $20,000 against the first half real estate tax collection to meet current operating expenses and the cost of yesterday's special congressional election.

The advance is the second sought by the county in the past month. Another for $10,000 was granted early in February.

Property tax collections today totaled approximately $130,000, enough to permit the advance on the basis of the percentage of returns due the county.

County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe said operating funds were already at the lowest mark in recent months at the beginning of February and the two special elections this month had imposed an additional burden. The elections are expected to cost the county about $10,500.

There was a cheerful note, however, in the promptness with which property taxes are being paid despite the fact that the collection period just got under way, officials said. The collection is expected to be one of the best in recent years, but it will not end until April 10, and tax funds will not be allocated to the county and its subdivisions until after the collection closes.

Terry Reported On Player Hunt

Giants' Pilot Visit to Phil Camp Ignites Rumor Of Possible Trade.

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. —(U.P.)— Trading rumors buzzed through the New York Giants' training camp today. Manager Bill Terry has gone to the Phillies' camp at Miami Beach.

First Baseman Merrill May, Pitchers Kirby Higbe and Hugh Mulcahy and Outfielders Morris Arnovich and Joe Marty are Phils mentioned as possible objects of Giant offers.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—(UP)—Southpaw Lee Grissom, acquired from Cincinnati, is the sensation of the New York Yankees' spring training camp.

In his first appearance on the mound yesterday Grissom held Yankee batsmen hitless. He exhibited mid-season speed and said afterward that his arm "felt fine."

TUCSON, Ariz. —(U.P.)— The Pittsburgh Pirates were scheduled to take their first workout today when they arrive at San Bernardino, Calif. The squad numbered 23 players with Lee Handley and Arky Vaughn still unsigned. Vaughn will sign later.

FORT MYERS, Fla — (U.P.) — Manager Oscar Vitt ordered calisthenics and running for the Cleveland Indians today, their first day in new spring training quarters here. Rollie Hemsley, who joined the Tribesmen en route, confirmed the report that he may attempt left-handed batting this season. Vitt will order Bob Feller, on hand when the Indians arrived, to put in special work perfecting control of his curve.

ORLANDO, Fla — (AP) — Buddy Lewis, Washington's regular third baseman the past few seasons, is taking regular turns in the outfield in preparation for a permanent assignment there. Coach Clyde Milan, handling the conversion of the hard-hitting infielder into a fly chaser, says Buddy's hardest task will be changing his style of throwing from sidearm to overhand.

* * *

BRADENTON, Fla.—(AP)—Casey Stengel's broad grin apparently means he can pick pitchers who can hit, whether or not they can pitch. Wilbur McElroy, youngster from the University of Southern California and picked up by Casey for the Boston Bees, belted a 400-foot home run over the fence yesterday with two on board.

BOSTON—(AP)—The Red Sox leave officially for the south today with about the usual number of players for an official party—three. They are Ted Williams, sensational right fielder; Ted Olson, former Dartmouth hurler, and Ulysses Lupien, former Harvard captain and first baseman. Olson and Lupien probably will wind up with farm teams.

TAMPA, Fla.—(AP)—Joe Beggs, pitcher who came to the Cincinnati Reds from the Yankees in the deal for Lee Grissom, thinks he'll "do all right" with the Reds, if given a chance to pitch regularly.

"I've burned up every minor league I've been in," he explained, "and I am sure I would have done the same in the American league, if the Yankees had given me a chance to strut my stuff."

Hang Up Wins In 'B' League

Mayflower, South Main Among Church Winners.

First Presbyterian, Mayflower, First Congregational and South Main Evangelical registered triumphs in the Church Class B league at the Y. M. C. A. last night.

Mayflower stopped First Methodist, 39 to 13, First Presbyterian topped First Lutheran, 33 to 23, South Main walloped Park Avenue Baptist, 22 to 9, and Congregational defeated the Catholic Foresters, 28 to 24.

WIND UP TRAINING

NEW YORK—(INS)—Bob Pastor and Lee Savold wound up their training today for their 12-round bout in Madison Square Garden Friday night.

Smiling Babe Goes South

Babe Ruth and the missus go south again but this time it's for a baseball camp at Palatka, Fla., where the former Sultan of Swat will help baseball hopefuls learn the fundamentals of the game.

A. B. C. May Knock State Cage Meet Out of Columbus In '42

COLUMBUS—(AP)—It's a long way in the future, but there's a chance that the state high school basketball tournament will be shifted from Columbus to Akron, Dayton, Lima or Findlay in 1942.

The Buckeye capital is in the thick of the scrap to entertain the American Bowling Congress, two years hence, and if the tenpinners do select Columbus for their annual two-month tournament, the basketball event will be swept right out of the State fairground coliseum.

* * *

St. Paul, Minn., is rated a cinch for the 1941 A. B. C., and the bowling boys report that everyone wants to come to Columbus the following year.

The Coliseum at the fairgrounds is the only place in the capital capable of being turned into a huge bowling alley. Also, it's the only sport big enough to handle a three-day, 32-team basketball classic. Back in the days when only 16 teams, eight in Class A and eight in Class B, were brought in for the state finals, the games were sometimes held in Ohio State University's gymnasium, but that can't happen under the present set-up.

* * *

State High School Athletic association officials said they would not object to transferring the cage meet, should Columbus get the A. B. C., dates for which would conflict with the high school event.

Offers to Box Bull Marino

George Becker Refuses to Wrestle Ruffian.

There'll be no other wrestling match in Mansfield between George Becker and "Bull" Marino if Becker has anything to say about it, and you can take Becker's word for that.

"I'll never step on a wrestling pad with that crazy Wop again," Becker stated today after being approached by Matchmaker Tim Nolan of the Quality club relative to meeting Marino here on next Monday night in a wrestling match.

"That guy is stark, raving crazy and anyhow he never wrestles, all he does is fight and slug. I'd be as crazy as he is to ever get on a wrestling pad with him again," Becker told Nolan.

Local fans will back Becker up in that contention. "However I'll tell you what I will do and lay you a little bet that Marino won't have the guts to agree to it. I'll fight him 10 rounds with the gloves on. Now let him talk his way out of that if he can. Just tell him I'll slug it out with him with the gloves."

Matchmaker Nolan is agreeable to that also. "I don't care which they do, wrestle or fight. It'll be a wild thing whichever they do and I'll hang up a good purse for it if Marino wants to put on the gloves with him," Nolan stated.

Nolan was to contact Marino late today with an offer to fight Becker in a 10 round bout here next Monday night.

400 Feeder Cattle

We have received for sale this week a very nice selection of low-priced feeding cattle.

These cattle are thin as result of the terrible cold winter in the West this year and the weights are the best. These cattle are not weighing within 50 to 100 pounds of what they did a month ago.

We also look for a sharp advance in prices in the next few weeks as it will be grass time and also there is a scarcity of light feeding cattle in the West due to last year's drouth.

We advise you to come in and buy these cattle at the prices we can sell them for. At the price of this feed now you can carry these cattle until grass time pretty cheap instead of waiting until grass time and pay a dollar a hundred more for your cattle.

Judging by the latest developments in the Near East, the man at the next desk ventures the opinion that the Allies, at last, are talking Turkey.

This World was is costing the Allies twice as much per day as did the first one. Let's hope it makes the ensuing peace twice as reasonable, too.

Money travels fast, says the man at the next desk, save when it's coming toward you.

Pace General Advance in Active Trading; List Up Major Fractions.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Aircrafts, steels and motors assumed leadership in lifting the stock market out of the doldrums today.

Advances of major fractions appeared all along the line in fairly active trading.

Bonds were firm. Commodities were uneven. Levels on the Paris bourse rose a little, but London and Amsterdam were unsteady.

Commentators noted an absence of participation by the general public in market dealings, viewing the operations as almost purely professional and, consequently, lacking in any great momentum.

Airplanes and automobiles were looked upon by Wall Street as providing the foremost bright spots in the somewhat lighter industrial horizon. Both industries were operating at increased momentum with the sky literally the limit for aviation output.

Railroads reported themselves operating at a rate 10 per cent higher than in 1939, largely because of increased commodity shipments.

High ranking among these commodities was cotton. The commerce department reported 1,125,000 bales were exported in January compared with 327,000 in the like 1939 month.

What does a Million Dollars mean?

● A million dollars represents many things to many people. To beneficiaries of insurance through the Standard Oil employees' Mutual Benefit Association, the one million dollars paid out in the last 11 years has meant help and comfort—at that critical time when life's span has suddenly ended for one of our SOHIOANS.

Besides providing death benefits through insurance, the Association's policy also assures sickness benefits—amounting to two-thirds of regular pay for as long as 52 weeks. And, in addition, Standard Oil employees cooperate with their company in a pension plan that is exceptionally broad and liberal.

At Standard Oil we believe "Mutual Benefit" really means mutual help whenever the need or emergency arises. For after all, ease of mind for those unpredictable events makes daily working and living a lot happier—a lot better.

Clash Over Personal Income Queries in 1940 Census

FOES PROTEST PROCEDURE AT SENATE QUIZ

Questionnaire Encroaches on Rights of Citizens, Charge Made at Hearing.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Opponents to 1940 census questions pertaining to personal income today clashed with commerce department officials as a senate commerce subcommittee began hearings on legislation to delete personal information from the census questionnaire.

A group of witnesses summoned by Senator Tobey (R) New Hampshire, opened what they called the "common man's" attack on the questionnaire, as William L. Austin, census director, defended it.

Frank L. Peckham, president of the Sentinals of the Republic and Tobey's first witness, declared that "we are opposed to further federal encroachment on the reserved rights of the states and individual rights of citizens."

"It isn't necessary," he asserted, "that every person live in a gold fish bowl in a republic such as ours, and there are just some things that the government has no business prying into."

Austin said that the government has precedents dating back more than a hundred years on which to base inquiry into personal income. He pointed out that the information obtained was "confidential" and that any census employe divulging it was liable to a $2,000 fine and a five-year prison sentence.

"On the basis of its record, the bureau of census possesses the confidence of the American people, and actual experience assures us that the questions to be asked in the 1940 census contains nothing that will shake that confidence," Austin said.

Willard L. Throp, economic advisor to Secretary of Commerce Hopkins, said the questions on income would clear up "the greatest blind spot" in the economic picture.

He added that information concerning the industrial workers dependent upon wages and salaries will "contribute to the wise solution of our difficult public and private problems."

Earlier, Tobey, arch critic of the 1940 questionnaire, served notice that he would produce witnesses from "all walks of life" in protest against the income questions.

"This is the beginning of a nationwide campaign that will result in the common people rising up in arms against this census snooping," said Tobey. "I have already received thousands of complaints and they will be presented to the senate in due course."

TUNNEY WINS BY KNOCKOUT IN BOUT WITH PROF OVER 'BARD'

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS, O.—Gene Tunney, former world heavyweight boxing champ who reportedly did his training with a volume of Shakespeare, yesterday made more money one one line of the Bard of Avon's "MacBeth" than the poet received for the whole play—almost!

Tunney has a technical claim on Ohio State university professor Jacob Bacchus Taylor, who also is Ohio's liquor director, for $5,000—the amount wagered on the correct version of a quotation from the fifth act of the famous drama. Old schoolmates, the two were lunching together when Shakespeare intruded. The ex-champ quoted the lines as follows:

"'Lay on, MacDuff:

"'And damned be he that first cries—hold, enough'."

Taylor, proud of his own Shakespearian knowledge, put up a remonstrating hand. "Hold on, Gene," he said. "That quotation should be:

"'Lay on, MacDuff:

"'And cursed be he that first cries—hold, enough'."

Tunney, demurred; he offered to bet five dollars he was right. Taylor, no piker, suggested smilingly that the ante be raised to $5,000. Tunney took him up faster than a right hook to the jaw. Frank Arven, Taylor's aide, rushed out to get a copy of the Bard's works for proof.

Tunney won by a knock-out!

Gasping in his corner, Taylor told Tunney he would "see you tomorrow."

But here's the catch—they were both right, according to state library officials, who held that "damned" was correct in the early editions, while more moral-minded revisers later changed the quotation to read "cursed." The judges, holding that the wager was made in fun, ruled it "no contest," and every one was happy.

COUNTY RELIEF FUNDS BOOSTED

State Allots Richland $16,000 In Excise Taxes for Direct Relief, Pay Off Bonds.

Richland county will receive $16,457 as its share of a $4,472,975 utility excise tax fund for poor relief purposes, State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson announced today.

Although $7,400 of the county's allocation must be used to pay off relief bonds due in March, County Auditor Norman L. Walfe said the rest, or $9,057, can be used for current relief bills.

A recent ruling of the attorney general releases the excess funds for direct relief and will go a long way toward helping the county meet its regular bills, the auditor said.

The $9,000 fund will be split up between the cities of Mansfield and Shelby and the county which administers the townships' relief.

The county still has about $30,000 in old relief bonds which must be paid from the excise tax allocations for the next four years at the rate of about $7,000 a year, the auditor said.

American Rolling Mill Reports Receipts Of 4 Millions.

MIDDLETOWN — (U.P.) — The American Rolling Mill company had a net income of $4,011,908 last year against the 1938 net loss of $1,307,880, President Charles R. Hook announced yesterday. This is equal to 69 cents per common share of stock.

Hook said the net sales income was only 35 per cent above 1938. Prices for the company's principal products, iron and steel sheets, were considerably lower last year than in 1938, he said, but the company shipped 61 per cent more tonnage.

MANSFIELD, OHIO, WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 28, 1940.

New Deal Set-Back Seen In Result

WITH less than half of the eligible voters of the Seventeenth congressional district taking the trouble to go to the polls at yesterday's special election, J. Harry McGregor, Republican, of Coshocton county, was elected to fill the unexpired term of the late Congressman William A. Ashbrook, Democrat, giving this district its first Republican representation in congress in the past decade.

By an odd quirk Mr. McGregor carried all counties in the district with the exception of his home county of Coshocton, from which he was elected to the state legislature in 1934, 1936 and 1938.

Various partisan interpretations will be given to yesterday's outcome, with likelihood, however, that the results of the May 14 primaries and the November election must be awaited before a fair analysis can be made of the apparent reversal in the attitude of voters in this district since William A. Ashbrook was re-elected to congress two years ago by a majority of 5,445 over Walter B. Woodward, his Republican opponent.

Most likely conclusion to be reached in the election of Mr. McGregor is that the result evidences repudiation of the New Deal federal administration, as a determined effort was made to tie up the Byron B. Ashbrook campaign with New Deal support, to the extent of sending a spokesman from Washington to campaign with Mr. Ashbrook throughout the district.

Mr. McGregor's campaign, on the contrary, was along definitely anti-New Deal and anti-third term lines, and on the basis of preference expressed by about one half of the voters of the district, it seems reasonable for Republican spokesmen to assume that the results reflected sentiment against the Roosevelt administration.

Several other factors probably had a considerable influence on the result, however, not the least of these being the mistake of bringing discredited former Governor Martin L. Davey into the district to speak in behalf of Mr. Ashbrook. Another was the inept move of calling old-age pensioners together last Saturday, on the pretext of an "important meeting," which turned out to be a political affair cooked up to laud Davey and boost Byron Ashbrook.

As was stated throughout the campaign, it had been the desire of Mr. Ashbrook to do no more than fill out the unexpired term of his uncle, leaving the field open for the full-term Democratic nomination at the May primaries. This will continue as the situation, as Mr. McGregor will be required to run again for nomination and election for the two-year term to start next January—with the Republican field also open for other contenders.

New Business at Sixty

A SIXTY-YEAR-OLD pattern-maker, member of the fourth generation of a family of pattern-makers, shut his shop in 1933 for lack of business. He had to go on working and decided to try making a new job for himself. He began to make gavels.

One might think the gavel demand too limited to support a new business. But the retired pattern-maker made particularly fine gavels. His skill became known. Inquiries soon turned into orders. The hero of this story was launched in a going business of his own once more.

He makes all kinds of gavels; the cheaper ones of maple, finer ones of Brazilian rosewood and other rare, imported woods. He makes the gavel cases, too. Recently he has added to his line winders for fishing cables and spools for wire. He expects to begin work soon on wooden salad bowls, spoons and forks. Being a good wood worker, it looks as if he could increase the variety of his products almost indefinitely.

There are so many sad stories of failure in the world today that it is good to hear of a man, now sixty-seven years old, who has succeeded in a new enterprise which he began not at forty but at sixty.

More Small Homes Being Built

WHILE Mansfield has long been fortunate in the large percentage of home-ownership among its citizens, it is interesting to note that this percentage is likely to be considerably increased within the next few years as a result of experiments showing that substantial small homes can be built to cost under $4,000, so that persons having small regular incomes can become home-owners at no greater monthly cost than is now being paid as rent.

With desirable suburban sites available at reasonable prices for large lots, and with greater assurance that home-building will not run into unexpectedly high costs, the incentive to home-ownership promises to become greater than heretofore, when many people regarded building or buying a home as beyond their means.

There will continue to be a demand, of course, for higher-priced homes—especially in the $6,000 to $10,000 range—but for young persons whose earning power has not yet reached its peak, and for those whose income does not permit ownership of a home above $2,500 to $4,000 value, the trend toward lower-priced homes will be welcomed.

Comrades In Propaganda

WHILE most people have been debating the amount of help Hitler and Stalin might give each other, one point has been overlooked. Eugene Lyons, editor of the American Mercury, says Stalin's greatest aid to Hitler has been the propaganda machine perfected over many years and now put at the disposal of Germany.

"The Communist International has changed its party line at the dictation of Moscow," Mr. Lyons told a recent audience, "and has turned pro-Nazi. In the Communist press the world over there is no more attempt to placate the western democracies. All Communists have gone over to the Nazis' side. In this country they no longer say a word against Germany."

This might be greater cause for worry in the United States if it hadn't already been discovered that Nazi and Communist propaganda defeats itself in free countries.

The Roosevelts would certainly be in a distressing plight if they were the retiring sort who dread getting their names in the paper.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — It may be that there is material for a sermon in this. It concerns a movie that didn't turn out any too well. It was badly acted and badly directed. One reviewer, in recording the flop, employed ridicule.

Not even a Gallup poll could determine the exact number of people who read that review, but of all the thousands who undoubtedly did read it, one was Ruth Gordon, who is an actress and who is also a genuinely superior person.

She frowned when she read it, and threw the paper away.

"That isn't right," she protested, "it isn't fair."

"But why? The film was a flop."

"That doesn't give him any right to ridicule people," she blazed. "If the actors are bad, let him say so. If the story is bad, let him say so. At least that will be honest reporting. But no matter how bad a picture or a play is, he has no right to try to be funny at someone else's expense."

"Why?" I asked.

"Because"—and she said this very slowly, "failure is never—funny."

DID you hear the one about the two Scotchmen who met in a bar and spent several hours trying to maneuver each other into buying the drinks.

Finally Mac turned to his friend and said, "Did I ever tell you about that lion I shot?" He sure was a big one."

"No," said Sandy, "I didn't know you were a Big Game hunter."

"Sure. Go hunting all the time. This was a big one. I shot him in Africa. Came mighty near losing my life too. It was like this. It was late in the day, you see, and I was walking along the veldt when suddenly this giant he-lion roared out at me. I had my gun on safety and didn't have time to shoot. The lion sprang, and I thought he had me. But he sprang too high, and as I ducked he sailed over my head.

"I whirled around hoping for a shot but I wasn't quick enough. He was already leaping at me again. But again there was too much power in his spring and he sailed over me. That was very fortunate, very lucky indeed, but I knew that sort of luck would run out pretty soon if I didn't do something about it, so when he sprang the third time I shot him between the yures."

"What's 'yures,' Mac?"

"Mine's Scotch," said Mac, "what's yours?"

IF YOU'VE ever wondered what the name of Sammy Kaye's theme song is you've wasted your time. It hasn't any name, or words. It's just one of those vagrant twists of melody that came out one night while Kaye was extemporizing at a piano. Finally, he introduced it as a nightclub in Cleveland, and so many people came up and asked what it was that he kept it as a theme. It has been his signature on all his broadcasts and records ever since.

What's Your Picture of Yourself?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

HOW seldom we grown-ups see ourselves, know ourselves, as we actually are.

When we were young, entering the world, we made a picture of ourselves. A fine picture, and fairly accurate, based on all that was best and bravest in us. We believed in that picture—which was right.

But, unfortunately, we continued to believe in it—continued to think it was an honest version of ourselves—which was wrong. For it wasn't true. We had changed. We were changing all the time—and often for the worse. Losing the keen edge of honesty and courage—fooling and failing ourselves — growing lazy and greedy, conceited and cowardly.

A natural enough transition. And if we could have realized it was happening, we could have saved ourselves. But we couldn't. Something rose between ourselves and the truth—blocked us from seeing the truth—that picture of ourselves. Instead of seeing our changed selves, we saw that old, shining picture. We believed we still fitted that picture. We were content and satisfied.

Other people saw the change, tried to make us see it. But we thought they were spiteful — didn't understand—wanted to hurt us. So we clung to our picture—drifted along.

And with each day it becomes easier to drift—harder to act. With each day the delusion hardens about us. We know less and less about our real selves.

And always we fortify ourselves with the thought that "we can't fool ourselves." But fooling himself is the best and easiest thing a human being does. To know oneself . . . to search for and face the truth about oneself . . that's the hardest job on earth. And not one person in a thousand is able to achieve it.

WE'RE all a little deluded about ourselves and millions of us are complete strangers to ourselves. We harbor endless, delightful delusions, and we haven't one honest bit of information about our real characters.

An intelligent stranger, seeing us for five minutes, knows us better than we know ourselves. If we should, by accident, meet the truth about ourselves, we'd deny it with shrieks of horror.

How often you've seen it all happening. Vibrant young creatures, with a passion for brave, honest living. Then, little by little, they begin to blur and bloat.

They don't know it. Or do they? If they do, they don't admit it, even to themselves. They still say the same fine, courageous things . . . profess to have the same healthy standards. To themselves, they are still the dauntless youngsters they were five or ten years ago. And they speak scornfully of the others who have changed — the others who have sold themselves out.

You listen, amazed. How can they fool themselves so? How it is possible for anyone to be so blind about oneself! Suddenly an awful thought strikes you—

ARE YOU AS BLIND AS THAT YOURSELF?

ARE YOU, TOO SEEING A PICTURE WHICH CEASED TO EXIST YEARS AGO?

You try to escape the ghastly thought—you dodge and twist—but always it returns. Are YOU like that? Are you? ARE YOU?

Timely Editorial

License Revocations.

A Columbus municipal judge revoked forever the driving rights of a motorist convicted of driving while intoxicated after citation of his record of arrests for drunkenness. This is the second recent local instance in which this drastic step was taken. Occasional news stories from other large Ohio cities have recounted similar action in dealing with persistent traffic offenders who have clearly demonstrated their unfitness to drive. There also has been observed a tendency, both here and elsewhere, to revoke driving rights for long periods in aggravated cases.

This trend doubtless is a result of the fact that traffic fatalities are again on the increase after the dramatic nation-wide reduction in 1938.

The individual who persists in driving while intoxicated should have no standing in the society of law-abiding motorists. By his defiance of public opinion and his disregard for the rights of others he has evidenced the fact that he lacks sense of proper moral responsibility.—Columbus Dispatch

"To Drink Like a Fish."

To say of an individual addicted to generous alcoholic imbibing that he drinks like a fish is to have fun at the expense of our finny relations whom we thus so lightly libel.

For the fish does not drink at all; that is to say, it takes in no, or practically no, water.

The misconception arises from the action of the fish in opening and closing its mouth to pass water through its gills.

In doing so, the fish is not drinking but breathing, in which process no liquid enters its stomach.

Visiting Oldest Hospital In U. S.

—By DR. CLENDENING

I RECENTLY described my visit to the oldest hospital on the North American continent—the Hospital of Jesus in Mexico City. On my way to Mexico I paused in New Orleans and visited the oldest hospital in the United States—the Charity hospital. (The second and third oldest hospitals in North America are in Canada.)

There is some partisan dispute as to which is the oldest hospital in the United States, some claiming the honor for the Pennsylvania hospital in Philadelphia. The Philadelphians say that the Charity was first an almshouse and only later a hospital, but the record shows that as early as May 20, 1737, there were five patients under treatment at the Charity.

In 1736 a sailor, Jean Louis, died in New Orleans, leaving all his estate to found a haven for the city's poor. They were to be given suitable work "so there would be no mendicants." In 1779 the old hospital was destroyed by a hurricane, but in 1782 the gift of over $100,000 by the richest citizen of the New World provided a new building, with much of the debris of the old being used. The calamity of fire destroyed it in 1809, but it was again rebuilt near Rampart street. Within the past few years it has moved to Tulane avenue, in fine new quarters.

Famous Doctor.

The most famous of its doctors was David C. Kerwas. He was attached to the invading British army in 1814, but allowed himself to be captured by Andrew Jackson's troops at the Battle of New Orleans because he felt his future was in the United States.

The old records show some things strange to modern eyes. The hospital was the largest dispensatory for alcoholic drinks in the city in 1832, and made a large part of its income by operating as a saloon. The expenditures at this time included $298 for candles of sperm whale fat, $202 for leeches to bleed patients with, and $111 for surgical instruments. This scanty allowance is accounted for by the fact that each surgeon provided his own instruments and was very proud of them and the case that held them.

Unhealthiest City.

New Orleans, by reason of its geographic position and also because of its port, which harbored world-wide shipping, was then the unhealthiest city in the country. Not only malaria bred in its mosquito-infested swamps, but yellow fever was brought in ships coming from Jamaica and the West Indies. The United States seaports from 1750 to 1850 were the sites of epidemic after epidemic of yellow fever. Modern sanitation has eliminated all that, and a medical student today probably never sees a single case. I know I never have seen a case.

The drainage of New Orleans was always a great problem, and gave rise to another set of plagues — dysentery and cholera. These, too, are diseases of the past.

In 1834 the internal management and nursing in the hospitals were taken over by the Sisters of Saint Vincent de Paul, known generally as the Sisters of Charity — an event considered the most notable in the annals of the hospital.

Problem in Subtraction.

Take the jobholders and the entrenched politicians from the third term situation and what do you have left?—Kansas City Times.

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Any day now you can look for a vicious congressional attack on the Home Owners Loan corporation.

Leader of the attack is expected to be Representative Ralph Church, Illinois Republican, who has been critical of HOLC since he forced the resignation of a top-flight HOLC attorney a couple of years ago on a charge of using HOLC facilities to solicit law private business for a former HOLC attorney.

Working hand in glove with Church and supplying him with information is the son and also the brother of the late Joe Byrns, speaker of the house of representatives, who helped guide the HOLC Act through congress.

Whether the mass of charges against HOLC have merit or not, the fact remains that the Byrnses—uncle and nephew—seem to have personal grievances against HOLC and have sworn to get revenge.

"Little Joe" Byrns, son of the late speaker, now holds his father's seat in the house. He got there largely by making hot campaign speeches against HOLC and in Washington he has continued his sniping.

The row started when "Big Joe" Byrns, then speaker, persuaded HOLC to appoint "Little Joe" general counsel of its Tennessee regional office. "Little Joe," however, wanted to be state manager and put the political heat on the Washington headquarters in an effort to land the job. When the manager's post was vacated, "Little Joe" was turned down cold.

His frame of mind toward HOLC has been none too amiable ever since.

The late Speaker Byrns also got his brother, John, a job with HOLC in its Washington office. But John relied more on high-placed political backing than on brains, so that on January 1, HOLC and John Byrns parted company. Now Uncle John Byrns is not averse to making HOLC officials rue the day he left the organization.

HOLC officials are patiently waiting for the Congressional onslaught, sorry that they ever filled a job on the recommendation of a politician.

Welles Canine Diplomat.

PEACE Envoy Sumner Welles did his best to dissuade newsmen from accompanying him to Europe and drastically limited his own entourage. But one member of the Welles family not left behind was the undersecretary of state's favorite dog, a crochety little Sealyham named Tobey.

Probably Tobey has seen more diplomatic service than any other dog in American history. He accompanied his master to the Panama conference last fall where he showed signs of distinct boredom even when the precedent-making American safety zone was decreed. In fact Tobey was so generally disgusted that the hotel maid had to distract him with a toy mouse to keep from being chewed up while she cleaned the room.

Tobey also visited the Buenos Aires Conference of 1936 along with President Roosevelt, Cordell Hull and his master. And although he may have been bored, he brought no boredom to Secretary Hull, who on the trip home almost threw Tobey overboard and demanded that his undersecretary keep "that darn dog" away from his private desk.

The Welleses are extremely fond of dogs and have no less than nine. Mrs. Welles is always rescuing some poor stray. One of them being a new-born fox terrier which Welles carried in an overcoat pocket when he left Cuba as ambassador. The pup was named "Dr. Grau" after the then president of Cuba.

However, Tobey is the favorite, and during dinner at the Welles home, he is taken into the dining room on a leach and sits under his master's chair. Now about nine years old, Tobey is a little sour on diplomats, and according to state department officials, has his paws crossed regarding the outcome of his and his master's present pilgrimage.

Pride of Maine.

"SHE'S a gold mine, that ship: I tell you she's a gold mine! Making $19,000 a month, to the glory of the state of Maine!"

Ed Moran of Maine is talking about the S. S. Red Jacket of Maine, and he's proud of the fact that everything about the vessel bespeaks the Pine Tree state. In his office in the maritime commission, there is a picture of the Red Jacket on the wall, a model of the Red Jacket in a glass case, and a history of her and her prototype in the bookcase.

The Red Jacket of today is a "C-2" cargo ship owned by the U. S. government, launched in May, chartered by the maritime commission to the Waterman Steamship company operating to the Far East. She is named for the Red Jacket of yesterday, the trim clipper ship built in Rockland, Maine, which holds the world's record for the Atlantic crossing under sail—13 days, 1 hour, and 25 minutes. And it was Commissioner Moran who did the naming.

It's sometimes hard for a man from Maine to make a dent in the New Deal, but Moran covered himself with glory. Not only did he name the vessel for a Maine clipper, but he saw to it that she got a Maine master—Captain J. J. chief engineer—E. C. Orne of Boothbay Harbor—and he had the Baker of Bangor—and a Maine vessel documented in Maine, tried out on a Maine course, and christened by a Maine lady, Mrs. Moran herself.

Great-Uncle Malachi

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

IN THE SIDE of the ancient chimney at great uncle Malachi's, as a nook called familiarly "the jog." This little hidden cupboard had two shelves. As a small child I distinctly remember how they looked, and I can still see great uncle Malachi fumbling for his spectacles upon the upper shelf. He kept them there, with a little bag of peppermints and a big fiddleshaped bottle of castor oil.

The lower shelf held the Bible with which great uncle conducted family prayers. It was a thick black book with stiff covers and yellowed edges and a peculiar, aged smell. Every morning before breakfast the members of the household would gather about the hearth and uncle would read from this old book and then all would kneel beside their respective chairs while solemn prayer was offered for that day's guidance.

Uncle Malachi was a shrewd, simple, kindly philosopher, with a twinkle in his blue eyes under shaggy brows. He had a shiny bald pate rimmed with rippling white hair; he wore home-made white shirts and buttoned-on suspenders; he believed in signs—he planted his fields by the moon—and he wore red flannel underwear every winter. Judged by modern standards he would seem crude, no doubt — but he was much revered in our neighborhood.

As his seven sons and three daughters, one by one, married and left home, he gave to each two gifts, not money or land, but a Bible and a bottle of castor oil. "Rule by the golden rule," he would say, "and the Lord will bless you. Keep your bowels open and ye'll feel like blessin' the Lord."

Uncle Malachi lived to be 93 and died as he slept. His descendants are scattered now, many of them to places of wealth and prominence, some to schoolrooms and farms and factories. As a class, his kin are intelligent, solid citizens with morals and a sense of humor—two things a democracy cannot do without.

Perhaps it may do no harm to retell the old man's quaint and whimsical advice, and for some of us to re-stock our shelves with Bibles and castor oil.

FIGHT FOR LOVE + + + + + + + +

CHAPTER VI

Perhaps Star was being too sensitive, but she fancied that her own relationship with Nina had not been the same since Bob's return. It might be only because now that her own son was here she hadn't so much time to give to any one else.

"Silly of me to feel neglected," the girl reminded herself. "After all I'm only her secretary and she has so many people dragging at her. Bob is probably right. She was just acting that way to keep from crying."

So many times Star had choked back her emotions, but it wasn't like Nina, who broke into a stream of words at the slightest provocation. Bob, however, refused to discuss it.

"Look, beautiful, who do you love?" Bob said, holding Star at arm's length.

"And you a college graduate!"

"All right. I know better but at the moment I've too much else to think about to be grammatical. Come, my child, tell teacher. Who is your sweetheart?"

Star smiled but asked seriously, "Are you sure it will work out?"

"Answer my question first."

"I don't know much about love." Star confessed. "But if wanting to be with you and thinking everything you do is perfect. . ."

"Wrong." Bob snapped. "Go to the foot of the class. Now repeat very slowly after me. I love you, Bob darling! I'll always love you. I want to belong to you."

Obediently she repeated it and was rewarded by being seized in his strong arms and kissed with a tenderness which reassured her.

"I'm covering up, too, just like mother," he whispered. "Otherwise I might break down and bawl like a kid. You are the most wonderful thing that has ever happened to me."

Nina was spared the ordeal of dining with them. She had an engagement and she departed dressed in one of her most colorful evening gowns. Her face was calm and showed no trace of tears. Star examined it anxiously but could see no sign of any secret disturbance as she called a gay good night.

It was the most thrilling experience a girl could have. It seemed impossible that she—Star Bright—could have won the love of Nina Lambert's son. Bob was so attractive, so eager and ambitious. She liked everything about him. He seemed to her sometimes like an adorable little boy playing at being grown. She could easily understand how Nina must feel about him. She herself felt toward him a gentle solicitude which was almost maternal. Not for anything in the world would she have hurt or disappointed him.

Mrs. Epperson was told of their engagement as she served their dinner.

Instead of congratulating them, the housekeeper demanded, "What does your mother say?"

"Now what would she say?" Bob teased. "Nina loves Star almost as much as I do. You ought to know that."

The housekeeper who had been with Nina ever since her husband died many years before said primly, "I'm sure I hope you'll be very happy.

Star knew that she was remembering the day Mamie had appeared at the door shouting and gesticulating. Nina might be generous enough to help Star rise above her environment but Mrs. Epperson would not be so lenient.

"What's the matter, darling?" Bob asked when Mrs. Epperson had left the dining room.

"Nothing! I'm all right."

She could not tell him that the thought of Mamie had intruded upon their happiness like an unwelcome ghost. Even then on the first night of their engagement Star had the feeling it couldn't last.

The next day Nina said thoughtfully, "I think we ought to have your mother for dinner some evening, Star."

Bob was present when she spoke. "That's a good idea," he agreed. "We ought to have the whole family."

It was obvious from his remark that Star's background had not as yet been discussed between them. Nina drew a sigh of relief as Star said gravely, "I haven't any one else. My parents were divorced when I was three years old and my mother is married again but her husband works at night so he couldn't possibly come."

Pride kept her from rejecting Nina's offer. If Nina insisted upon making such a gesture, which was just like her, she was so warm-hearted and hospitable, there was nothing Star could do about it. Bob would have to meet her mother sooner or later. She wouldn't want him to think she was ashamed of Mamie because they were poor. If it were only that, Star thought, sick at heart. There was a chance, of course, that Nina might forget about it. She had a way of making plans and forgetting them unless she was reminded and Star knew that although Bob had spoken so cordially he was not really interested in any one except herself. It wouldn't matter to Bob any more than it had to Nina who her mother was or what she did.

As the days passed she began to think that Nina had given up the idea. Perhaps she had guessed how embarrassing such a dinner would be not only for Star but for her mother. Nina had always been so kind. She wasn't as affectionate as she had been before Bob's return but that was only natural. After all, if she didn't approve of their engagement, all she had to do was say so. Even if Bob wouldn't listen, Star would never marry him without his mother's consent.

But on this occasion Nina's memory, usually so unreliable, did not fail. On the fifteenth of August when she gave Star her bi-monthly check, she said cheerfully: "Will you be seeing your mother today?

The girl could feel the color rushing into her face but she replied quietly, "Yes, Mrs. Lambert, I will."

"Invite her to dinner next Monday, "Nina directed, consulting her engagement book. "Tell her we'll send for her and you and Bob can take her home."

When Star did not reply, Nina added cordially, "Or would you rather I'd ask her myself? I'll telephone, if you prefer."

"No," Star said, "It won't be necessary. But I don't know if she'll come. Mother doesn't go out much, you know."

"Oh, she must come, "Nina insisted. "Tell her no one else will be here. Just a family affair."

Star left the room with her heart in her shoes. It was dreadful to feel as she did about Mamie. One shouldn't be ashamed of one's own mother no matter what she did, she told herself. But Mamie was so unreliable. Star felt she couldn't bear it if Mamie created one of her scenes in Nina's room. But surely she wouldn't when she realized the importance of the occasion. This once Mamie Delevan might be kind. There would be no necessity for repeating the experience since Star and Bob would be leaving for New York just as soon as they were married.

All the way to the shabby apartment house Star was trying to figure out the best way of approaching the subject, finally deciding that bribery would be as good a method as any. She would buy Mamie a new dress to wear with the understanding that she should live up to it. Something dignified and ladylike. The best dress Star would afford.

Fortunately her mother was in a tractable mood. The apartment was less disorderly than usual and Mamie was sitting by the window like any other housewife, darning a pair of socks. The domestic task made her seem more maternal. Her gray hair was combed neatly instead of straggling as it so often did about her face.

Star thought, "I wish Bob could meet her now, "but she had refused his offer to accompany her.

Mamie said, "I thought it was about time for you to be coming. Did you bring my money?"

Star smiled and sank into a chair without removing her hat.

"Do I ever forget it?"

"No," Mamie admitted, "You've been pretty good about it. Not that it's much but it keeps me from having to beg it from Joe. He's getting stingier than ever."

This time, however, Star had no intention of listening to the story of Joe's misbehavior.

"I've something to tell you," she said. "You remember the picture of Mrs. Lambert's son you saw on her desk?"

Mamie nodded.

"He's come home and fallen in love with me. We're engaged," Star continued feeling as she said it that it was more like a dream than ever. It couldn't be true.

"Well what did I tell you? Didn't I say you two ought to make a match of it?

"You must have had a premonition," Star admitted.

"When are you going to be married?" Mamie asked.

Vendol Proved Wonderful for Retired Mansfield Machinist

Tells how sharp pains in back and legs were relieved as well as other troubles. Vendol is the medicine that is helping many people in this city.

Many people here in town have found that Vendol is the very medicine they needed because it brought splendid relief and made them feel so much better. Often they give permission to publish their experience so that other sufferers will be led to give this great compound a trial. For instance, Mr. John F. Bear, of 600 Lexington Ave., Mansfield, who was a machinist for years at the Ohio Suspender Co., gave his experience to the Vendol Man in Central Drug Store as follows:

"I was constipated all the time and also needed a diuretic action on my kidneys, and this condition caused a lot of suffering by sending sharp pains across my back and running down through my legs, and sometimes made me feel stiff so I could hardly stoop or bend over, and many nights these pains kept me awake till late hours

"The constipation also made me feel bilious, gave me a coated tongue, and little spots floated before my eyes and sometimes I'd awaken with a headache and feeling like I hadn't had a wink of sleep.

"I was advised to try Vendol for these troubles so got some along with a box of the little Vendol laxative tablets, and this medicine gave the most complete and satisfying relief from constipation I had known for a long time; then, I soon noticed the aches and pains passed off, and this relief from constipation and the diuretic action of my kidneys also relieved those other annoying troubles that had made me so miserable.

"I think Vendol is a grand medicine so am glad to give a public recommendation for it."

If you who read this, are suffering from the same troubles due to the same causes described here, and will come to Central Drug Store, Cor. Main & 4th Sts.; ask for me, the Vendol Man, and I will explain all about my great medicine which is made mostly from extracts of Roots and Herbs, and tell you honestly if I believe it will help you. Samples are free. Most all leading druggists sell Vendol.

G. O. P. LEADERS REJOICE OVER M'GREGOR'S WIN

Say Results of 17th District Election Points Way to More 1940 Victories.

trict, almost snowbound, cast only 50,329 votes, however, as against 98,000 in the general election in 1938.

Richland Backs McGregor.

Richland countians gave McGregor an unofficial margin of 725 votes, but in the county outside of Mansfield Ashbrook had a 64-vote edge. The total Richland county vote was 10,580, only 580 more than the county board of elections had predicted. The voting was heavier in the afternoon than anticipated, upsetting early calculations.

Because of the fact that there were only two names on the ballot, Richland county returns were complete by 8:15 p. m. yesterday. Precinct A of Madison township was the first to report, submitting its tabulation to the election just 18 minutes after the polls closed at 6:30. Bloominggrove township was the last to report, at 8:15 p. m.

The victory of McGregor and Mrs. Frances Bolton in the 22nd district increases Ohio's Republican representation in the house to 16. There are eight Democrats. It boosts the total Republican representation in the 435-member house to 168. There are seven vacancies.

McGregor's election also necessitates selection of a new Republican floor leader in the Ohio house of representatives as he is expected to resign his seat soon and most observers predict that a special session of the general assembly will be held this year.

Will Run For Full Term.

Both he and Mrs. Bolton have announced that they will be candidates for the full term in congress beginning in 1941 and must run for nomination again in the May primaries. Their elections yesterday give them seats in the national house only for the duration of the present congress.

The election, called by Gov. John W. Bricker after death left congressional seats vacant in the 17th and 22nd districts, attracted national attention as a "barometer" of sentiment for the New Deal administration.

Immediately after the nominees were chosen in a special primary Feb. 6, the national administration and Democratic leaders sent speakers into the district to campaign for Ashbrook, and the Bricker administration in Ohio gave its full support to McGregor.

Ashbrook's campaign was directed by Capt. Victor Hunt Harding, executive secretary of the National Democratic Congressional Campaign committee, who came into the district from Washington. State Democratic Chairman Arthur L. Limbach, former Governor Martin L. Davey, and other Ohio Democratic campaigners took the stump for Ashbrook during the final week of the campaign.

Blames Davey Support.

Party leaders in Richland county, who refused to sanction a Davey speech here Saturday night, blamed the defeat on the former governor's support of Ashbrook. One county Democratic leader said yesterday he found a number of voters who refused to go to the polls because Davey had joined in the campaign.

Gov. Bricker made at least two talks in behalf of McGregor who is the majority floor leader in the Ohio house of representatives of which he has been a member for three terms. State G. O. P. Chairman Ed. D. Schorr threw the state organization back of McGregor, an unusual procedure in a congressional campaign but one which Schorr said would man a great deal to the party if McGregor won.

McGregor's margin of victory, political observers contend, showed a marked trend away from the New Deal in the district as compared with returns in the 1938 election when the late Congressman Ashbrook defeated Walter B. Woodward, the Republican candidate, by 5,445 votes.

Much of the difference, observers pointed out, probably was due to the late Mr. Ashbrook's personal popularity in the district which won for him even in years when Republicans held a margin in state election. He elected to 10 terms in congress, including three terms from 1934 to the time of his death last Jan. 1.

His record and name, however, were not enough to carry his nephew through to victory yesterday. The Democratic nominee this time had never been in politics until he filed for the post left vacant by his uncle's death. He is the president of a Johnstown bank and the executor of the late Mr. Ashbrook's estate. He had sought only to fill the unexpired term of his uncle.

McGregor has served in the state legislature from Coshocton county since 1935. He was elected first by a majority of 884 votes, two years later by 940 votes, and in 1938 by 3,099 votes.

A native of Unionport, Jefferson county, he has lived at West Lafayette, Coshocton county, since 1902. He is married and has two daughters and a son. He is a World war veteran and is past commander of the West Lafayette post of the American Legion.

Since he first went to the state legislature, he has introduced or sponsored a number of bills that have become laws. Among them are the ones providing free textbooks in public schools, permitting old age pensioners to retain their property, setting up a financial program for the state school foundation law, and prohibiting the use of hunters' and trappers' license fees for anything except conservation purposes.

McGregor Sees G. O. P. Trend.

McGregor was elated over his win in yesterday's election, predicting, like other G. O. P. leaders, that it points to a Republican victory in Ohio next fall.

McGregor said:

"I am most grateful for the confidence expressed in me by the voters of the 17th district. I have tried to make clear my stand on important issues and now that the district has chosen me I expect to continue my effort to restore the nation in an orderly manner to a pay-as-you-go basis through economy and the encouragement of business.

"If the result in the 17th district is to be taken as an indication of the general trend, as emphasized by both Democrats and Republicans, then there is every reason to look for an early return to sane government and prosperity throughout the nation."

No Apology—Ashbrook.

In his statement, issued from his home in Johnstown, Ashbrook said:

"The Democratic party was placed at a great disadvantage in this hurried election, for obvious reasons. We have no apology to make in spite of the unsatisfactory result. I congratulate the new congressman from the 17th district and I want very much to express my sincere thanks to the thousands of good friends throughout the district who gave so generously of their time and effort to my campaign. If we had it to do over again, I can think of nothing I would have done differently."

Gov. John W. Bricker who took an active part in McGregor's campaign interpreted the victories as a slap at the New Deal and a pat of approval for his legislative program, while Republican State Chairman Ed D. Schorr translated the vote into a prediction of eventual defeat for the Roosevelt administration.

"The results of the elections in the 17th and 22nd congressional districts confirm statements we have made in recent weeks that Ohio was firmly entrenched in the Republican column," Governor Bricker said. "This was probably the most indicative election which has been held in the United States this year.

"The outcome reflects Ohio's resentment at the treatment it has received at the hands of the New Deal. It serves as a complete and decisive answer to the New Dealers who ballyhooed these elections as a forerunner of the 1940 general election."

Commenting on McGregor's election, Bricker said the "fine vote which he received reflects public approval of the state legislative program which he helped draft."

In Washington, Rep. Joe Martin, Republican house leader, said the Ohio contests foreshadowed election of a Republican president and Republican congress in 1940.

State Chairman Schorr said:

"Tuesday's Republican victories were of more than local significance, particularly in the 17th district where with only half as many votes cast as in 1938, the majority was completely reversed from Democratic to Republican.

"Both Republican candidates, J. Harry McGregor in the 17th and Mrs. Frances Payne Bolton in the 22nd, campaigned on anti-New Deal issues and as a result of their splendid victories, they will join forces in congress with a militant Republican minority which after Jan. 1 will become an effective majority."

White Cites Trend.

Other Republican leaders, including Congressman Dudley White of Norwalk, a candidate for the Republican nomination for the U. S. senate, were quick to predict that McGregor's win marked the beginning of a trend away from the New Deal. White commented:

"Yesterday's election in the 17th district expresses a disapproval of the third term idea and the New Deal policies which have failed to produce recovery. It is a sample of the way in which Ohio will lead the way to a Republican victory in 1940."

Ralph Hardy, Richland county party leader, asserted that "we are grateful for the confidence expressed in our candidate, J. Harry McGregor, as indicated by Tuesday's vote. Running on an anti-New Deal program, with issues clearly defined, he came through in splendid fashion. The trend is most encouraging."

Both Secretary of State Earl Griffith and George Neffner, election expert in the secretary of state's office, expressed surprise at the unusually heavy vote.

"It is an encouraging sign that voters should turn out in such large numbers when weather conditions were so abominable," Griffith said. "It is a compliment to our citizenship."

"The vote indicates a tremendous interest among voters," Neffner declared. "It has a wonderful portent."

GERMANS MAKE NEW BID FOR RUMANIAN OIL

Air War Continues With Nazis Claiming Netherlands Forms 'Gateway' for Britain.

nounced today by the French high command.

These were in addition to two other German planes — Henkel bombers—which the British announced yesterday they had shot down on their eastern coasts after the German fliers had crossed France and the English channel.

The French did not reveal whether their pursuit planes or anti-aircraft batteries were responsible for the two enemy craft destroyed over France.

The diplomatic war for control of Rumania's rich oil and other supplies took a new turn with authoritative reports that Germany had offered a guarantee of Rumanian frontiers in return for huge increases of oil and wheat shipments.

Germany offered to get Hungary, Russia and Bulgaria to withdraw territorial demands but the price—a virtual Nazi trade monopoly—was considered too high by authoritative Rumanians. The presence of Allied and Turkish armies in the Near East has made Balkan nations cautious of offending the Allies.

Military and naval circles in Britain discussed the possibility of sending an expeditionary force, supported by warships and planes, to fight with Finland against Russia. Britain has sent material help but some British quarters have criticized "half meausres."

One of the opponents of direct aid was David Lloyd George, World war prime minister, who also declared today, while "frankly in respect of food we (Britain) are not so well off as we were last time for a long war."

Addressing the national defense and public interest committee he urged the government to "make it clear" that air attacks on civilians would bring retaliation.

"Don't run any more risks," the white maned veteran said in discussing the possibility of war with Russia.

"I would not allow any reckless or inconsiderate steering on icy roads to skid us into war with Russia. It is a big job we have undertaken. It will need all our strength to get through."

The German high command reported a strong infantry assault supported by artillery was repulsed by German forces east of the Moselle river last night.

(French military advices reported artillery bombardment of German positions in the Blies Valley, but did not mention troop attacks on German positions.)

Stresses Need of Milk Regulations In Talk to Rotary

Importance of the sanitary handling of milk, from producer to consumer, was impressed on Mansfield Rotarians at their Tuesday meeting at the Mansfield-Leland hotel in a talk given by Douglas Griffin, sanitary engineer of the Mansfield health department, who spoke on "The Work of the Health Department With Milk."

Referring to the milk industry as mounting to approximately one and a half billion dollars annually in the United States, with daily delivery of 34,000,000 quarts to American homes, Griffin stressed the necessity for state and local regulations to prevent spread of diseases commonly caused by contaminated milk.

He told of steady increase in recent years of adoption of a standard ordinance setting up requirements for milk distributed in cities and towns and explained the procedure in connection with the adoption of such a regulatory ordinance in Mansfield in 1936.

Reference was also made to frequency of inspection of milk sources from which Mansfield is supplied, also of pasteurizing plants and raw milk dairies.

Herbert R. Slough was program chairman of the meeting. Dale Ward told briefly of a recent motor trip on the overseas highway from Miami to Key West, and his impressions of this southernmost city in the United States, where he attended a Rotary club meeting.

Dr. Charles G. Brown is to be chairman of next Tuesday's meeting.

MRS. BENNINGHOFF TO RETURN IN APRIL

Gives Final Afternoon Program Before Women's Association, Friends at First Congregational Church Tuesday.

MORE than 300 attended the last of the series of book reviews which have been given by Mrs. W. E. Benninghoff of Cleveland, Tuesday afternoon at the First Congregational church. These popular programs have been sponsored by the Women's association of the church. It was announced Mrs. Benninghoff will return for an evening performance on April 10 at which time she will review the book "Iron Brew" by Holbrook

A most interesting and comprehensive review of "Children of God" by Vardis Fisher was the program given yesterday This history of the Mormon life and religion was told in such a descriptive way that the listener felt an intimate knowledge of the thoughts and beliefs of those people.

"Children of God" begins with the boyhood life of Joe Smith, whose visions brought about the formation of the colonies of Mormons. The setting is laid in the early part of the 19th century in Palmira, N. Y., which was the religious center of the country at that period. While the group of Mormons were awaiting for a sign from God which was to tell them what type of religion they were to follow, young Joe Smith went to the garden and stared at the sun until he did see spots or signs. Through his great belief, he swayed the rest and he became a "prophet" in their midst Through his many visions he prepared a book which was to be the Mormon Bible.

Following his marriage part of the colony moved to Kirkland, O., where they gathered a new following. But people were not to be so easily swayed and many went against him. He was tortured, tarred and feathered, but still he kept on with his preaching.

Later they moved to Missouri, to Independence While there one of his converts was a young chap, Brigham Young. There the idea of celestial marriage took place, as Smith thought the more children a man had the more power he would have in heaven So the second year he married five women. Soon the little band moved westward and when they reached the beautiful country at the Salt Lake basin they settled.

Brigham Young was Smith's right hand man and after Joseph Smith was killed by a group of anti-Mormons, Young took over the leadership In 1851 there was a proclamation of plural marriage. Smith had 27 wives before he died. After many trials and discouragements, Young died at the age of 76 years, having fathered 57 children. It was in 1894 that Utah was admitted to the states after the United States government had argued their creeds for years.

This unusual book was awarded the Harper prize for 1939 and the author spent seven years in compiling material which he took two years to write Miss Helen Hurst, association president, was in charge, and introduced the speaker

Following the program a bake sale was held in the church parlors

Knitted coats to wear with these bright dresses will be just the right note for any little girl's spring wardrobe. . . . Long sleeves, white piped collars and narrow belted waists are features of these coats, which come in light pastels, as well as darker shades of green and rose. . . . Oh yes, and there are berets to match all of them

WHILE discussing all of these things for the little girl at your house, we must remember that the local shops have some cute new things for brother, too . . . Shorts and shirts of poplin either matching or in two-tone combinations are bright and clever for spring and summer wear—they're trimmed with colored buttons and piping and come in sizes from two to six.

* * *

If you hate to see Baby Dumpling bounce his dinner plate off the nearest piece of furniture and break it to pieces, you can solve the problem by getting him one of the new "turtle" plate and cup sets. . . . These come in pink or blue bakelite—they're in the shape of a turtle with a divided plate and a place for a matching cup. . . . Other new things for baby include the new plakie teether beads—with pure vegetable coloring baked in the beads, which are on a non-rusting chain, these are perfectly safe for baby to teeth on. . . . And Walt Disney's fish, Cleo, has invaded toyland now—in the guise of a red floating fish. . . . Just the thing for the youngsters' Easter basket are those life-like looking little rubber bunnies that squeak—in blue, gray and white.

EVER so many of the dresses for spring have soft feminine touches such as lace trim, full sleeves and fitted princess lines—much of this is probably a result of "Gone With the Wind"—in which Vivien Leigh wears such gorgeous gowns. . . . One dress I saw while shopping yesterday was fashioned from pink and gray silk crepe, with a fitted midriff and square neckline—pleated pink organdy collar and cuffs were buttoned on with tiny pink pearl buttons . . . Another pretty frock was one of a deep shade of rose, which had large white coin dots on it—the blouse was of chiffon with full bracelet-length sleeves, and the skirt was of matching crepe with the new hipline pockets . . . In fact, shades of rose and pink are being featured quite a bit for springtime wear, and a light-weight wool two-piece outfit in one of the downtown stores was smart with a white angora design embroidered on the front of the bodice.

An attractive gray ensemble I saw yesterday had a fitted dress of gray crepe with flattering draped lines, and a fitted coat of gray wool with self trim on the front closing. . . . A chic little navy blue ensemble had a perky little bolero jacket with wide revers of crisp white eyelet pique and matching pockets on the hipline of the dress.

* * *

A NEW ITEM of beauty parlor equipment called the Inspire deep skin electro mask, was demonstrated to Mansfield beauty parlor operators at the Mansfield-Leland hotel last night . . . The mask (which utilizes electricity to develop infra-red rays) is said to be able to rejuvenate the underskin tissues, and help to improve complexion, remove impurities, relieve dryness and build new muscular tissue. . . . The demonstration was in charge of Orey W. Mayhew, representing a Cincinnati distributor.

HAVE you seen the new pearly polishes for daytime wear? Created by a leading woman nail enamel manufacturer, this new lacquer is iridescent with a soft, subtle effect—it's far more opaque than most polishes and consequently easier to put on—so that you only need one coat . . . It's frosty, delicate and luminous in shades of agate (a soft, pearly rose), red spangle (a true, live red) and sequins (a shimmering burgundy tone). . . . They're all pretty and will do a lot for any costume

* * *

AND IN CONCLUSION: The newest things in handbags are the jumbo ones, made envelope style of silk, gabardine and patent. . . And with them go giant gold initials—almost as big as the purses.

* * *

Note The styles described above are available in Mansfield shops. You can learn where they may be obtained if you will telephone Marianne at The News-Journal between 1 and 2 30 p. m.—Canal 4251.

Worry Carouse Doesn't Help Writer Says

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Are you getting pouches under your eyes, and crows' feet around them, worrying? Take heart, for the things you fret and fume over seldom come to pass. It's the unexpected that happens, as Disraeli said.

Poets and prophets have inveighed against the futility of worrying in a variety of ways, which would take too much space to quote. But reduced to bone and marrow, the substance is the thing you agonize over seldom happens.

But suppose it does happen — worrying isn't going to help. On the contrary, you're going to open up all sorts of calamity channels in advance. Instead, try breaking up all your old worry records. Throw them out as you did the cracked gramophone records last time you had a housecleaning.

Apart from being the greatest ally and go-getter for the beauty parlor business, worry has no real market value. Two or three days of good self-indulgent worry and a little self-pity on the side will put more lines in your face than a spell of illness and the loss of your pocketbook combined. When you've finished your worry carouse you'll be just where you started, your problems unsolved. The things you fretted over piled high as furniture on a moving day.

I've used the word carouse intentionally, for people who would be horrified at the idea of drinking or doping get almost as much of a kick out of a prolonged worry spree. They seem to feel there is something creditable in stewing and fretting over what might, would, could or should happen to them . . .

With these worry experts, anything will do. They can agonize over their jobs, the vamp or her companion-piece in mischief, the shiek, and what either of these may do to any member of the family. And with equal gusto, they can worry over health, children, loss of youth, beauty, money—none of which things are restored by worry, which, by a trouble-making state of mind, are made a bit more certain.

If it's your job you're fretting over, put just that much nerve force into your work, or into looking for a new job, or applying your energies to thinking up new ideas which will land you a better job.

If it's a vamp you're worrying over, don't lose your good looks fretting about her—heaven knows you'll need them! To a wife who has to suffer the ignominy of seeing her husband's love stray to another woman, the best advice is look to your appearance and keep your sense of balance—and above all, don't nag.

There's no Easter greeting like a well taken photograpr.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

As I neared my father's suite going over the message from Queen Olga to him, I was startled by a prolonged and burlesqued but low-muttered "H-sst" to the left of me. A glance showed me Lillian, her husband and Dicky, all sitting in a hall window seat.

"You look like a cross between an international spy and a king's messenger," Lillian greeted me laughingly. "We've been laying bets as to what's on the well-known mind."

"Mr. Philip Veritzen," I began demurely, "has requested that no one except my father should know what is on my mind just at present."

"And, of course," she gibed, "with your well-known docility, you are heeding that request to the last syllable."

"I was going to look for you three as soon as I had seen Father," I told her. "It's a bit of luck finding you here."

"It won't be for you," Dicky threatened, "unless you show more celerity in spooning the lentils. Come on! Shake a wrist! Dish the dope!"

Without further delay I told them of Queen Olga's revelation of the secret marks on her emeralds.

"Phil must have been flabbergasted when she said that," Lillian commented.

"He was," I said, smiling, "but he thought no time should be lost in acquainting Father with the news of the markings on the stones."

"I'll bet he also thought he should be the one to do the acquainting," Harry said.

"Right again," I told him, "but when I reminded him of father's illness, Olga immediately proposed that I tell him on my next regular call on him. I don't think Phil liked it, but he agreed."

"I'll bet he did," Dicky said with a sardonic grin. "Will that old lad jump through hoops and lie down and play dead for the rest of his natural life! Where is he now?"

"In Olga's suite, waiting to see if Father wants to see him or Olga."

"It won't hurt him to cool his heels for a while," Dicky said.

"You forget," Harry Underwood drawled, "that he's probably overjoyed at the chance to linger. It isn't every day that one can make love to a qveen.' "

"But we really ought not to delay this any longer. The Chief wants to know every little thing about those emeralds without delay. And he won't want to wait to see those markings when he does hear the news. Don't you think, Madge, it would be a good idea for you to go back now, making some excuse that you can't see your father for a few more minutes, and ask Olga to put her markings down on a piece of paper right away, and add the name of her jeweler, and any other important data she has concerning that necklace? Then, when you tell your father about it, he either can send for her, or you can skip back and get it. Do you agree?"

'I certainly do," I said, rising.

"And while you're gone," Lillion said, also rising, "I'll put a word in Miss Whitlock's ear to the effect that you're coming over with important news. Then she'll have him all ready for the interview."

BRIEFS

The O. E. S. benefit card parties held Friday afternoon at the homes of Mrs. Harold Hopkins and Mrs. M. C. Templer on South Kniffin street were very much of a success both financially and socially. About 65 tickets were sold. There were tables for bridge, pinochle and 500. Score gifts for bridge were won by Mrs. I. G. Rumbaugh, and Mrs. H. B. Knapp; pinochle, Mrs. Lottie De Witt and Mrs. Roscoe Crall, for 500 Mrs. Claire Tauner and Mrs. Corvis Huffman. Tea was served at the close of the games.

THEATERS

THIS AND THAT: If "G. W. T. W." stays on New York's Broadway as long as is predicted, Vivien Leigh will be running in opposition to herself before long. She and her fiance, Laurence Olivier, are scheduled to do 'Romeo and Juliet' on the stage there within a few weeks . . . The next Hardy Family picture is under way and will be titled "Andy Hardy Meets a Debutante" . . . The sneak preview of "Strange Cargo" shows Gable and Joan Crawford in another boxoffice hit. . . . The revival of old, tuneful songs (which is largely the result of the too-silly, swing songs of today continues and "On Moonlight Bay" will be revived in "Ghost Comes Home" . . .

Closes After Tomorrow.

Tomorrow will be Mansfield's last chance to see "Gone With the Wind" for some time. The picture which marks another milestone in the development of the picture industry, will finish a week's engagement at the Madison with the evening show tomorrow. In all probability the picture will not return until it is released for regular motion picture schedules. The all-star Technicolor spectacle has elicited "raves" from Mansfield audiences.

No Longer Typed.

Robert Montgomery is one of the few fortunate screen players who stepped out of a "type" into meatier parts. He made the break in "Night Must Fall" when this popular playboy of screen comedies appeared as a psychopathic case with an uncontrollable passion for murder. In "The Earl of Chicago," current at the Ohio, he plays an illiterate, cruel and calculating underworld character who inherits an English earldom. The picture was made at the London studios of M-G-M.

Screwball Comedian.

Joan Davis, who plays the screwball country cousin who moves in with the Jones Family in 'Too Busy To Work," made her bow to the movies as an eccentric comedian who could take funny tumbles. She had to stop it after she had injured her back, but will come back in a slap-stick adagio in her next film. The Jones Family episode is an attraction at the Ritz, through Thursday.

Revive Old Film.

An old film revived is "Pride of The Legion," which is on the Park bill for today an tomorrow. It is the story of an intrepid policeman and an intelligent dog, Players are Barbara Kent, J. Farrell MacDonald, Lucien Littlefield, Sally Blane, Victor Jory and Rin-Tin-Tin jr. "The Hidden Menace" with Otto Kruger and Gertrude Michael is the second feature on the bill.

Comedy and Spectacle.

A romantic comedy, "There's Always A Woman," and the spectacular picture of the English army in British India, "Gunga Din," make up the bill at the Majestic theater through tomorrow. Joan Blondell and Melvyn Douglas, with Mary Astor and Frances Drake are in the former, and a cast of male stars, including Douglas Fairbanks, Victor McLaglen and Cary Grant, are in the second film.

"The Authority on Authorities"

LEADING AGAINST SLAMS

Defense against slam contracts is a subject of its own, especially opening leads against them. Whereas the defender's effort to beat a lower contract is based on his striving to build up a sizeable number of tricks for his side, he must concentrate on the most likely way to get just a couple of tricks when he is opposed to one of the big bids. In doing this, he should be willing to abandon all hope of establishing long strings of tricks in order to increase the likelihood of taking a few.

There were many variations of bidding in the duplicate where this deal arose, some using the Blackwood slam convention, as in the bidding given above, and some natural bidding. A number of the pairs stopped at 3-No Trumps.

A check-up showed that wherever the deal was played at only 3-No Trumps, East invariably led the spade 10, and six-odd got made. But where the bid was carried to small slam, East in every case led the heart Q, and the contract was defeated.

Just what does that show? It reveals principally that, when the contract was low, the effort to set up the largest possible number of tricks, by means of the longer spade suit, justified risking a lead from the K into a tenace. But when the contract was a small slam the spade suit had better be counted on for only one trick, with a well-placed K, and the effort to build up another trick had better be in the shorter heart suit, headed by honors in sequence. This was so especially because the spade K could be an entry to take a heart trick, and the hearts could not very well serve as an entry for anything.

FINNS BRING UP MORE MEN, REPULSE REDS

Throw Reinforcements Into West Mannerheim Line; New Soviet Loses Claimed.

made new attempts to advance northeast of Lake Lagoda but were repulsed.

In the Kuhmo central front sector, the communique said, operations continued against a Russian force which has been surrounded.

The greatest danger appeared to be that the Russians would break through the costal defenses near Viipuri and move on the city from the west.

The Russians had battered their way to Somme, seven miles below Viipuri, and were spreading out in three directions, causing the Finns to avacuate all towns bordering the Bay of Viipuri, and a strip 25 miles back into the interior. The Somme line of boulder barriers, traps and dugouts was still holding, according to Finnish reports but was threatened by the three-way Russian attack which was:

1. Along the coastal branch of railways between Leningrad and Viipuri in the vicinity of Somme.

2. West of there, over the Icea, where a chain of islands almost bridges Viipuri bay. Fighting there has been furious. If the Russians pushed a large force across the ice to the far shore, the Finns could not defend Viipuri even though they kept their lines below the city intact.

Finnish dispatches said that wave after wave of Russian infantry poured from their newly occupied island fortress of Koivisto and above Johannes, racing across the ice into well-directed Finnish machine gun fire; that Russian bodies piled on the ice. The Finnish air force, augumented by new planes from abroad, was said to be aiding by raiding the Russian supply lines.

3. Across the main line Viipuri-Leningrad railroad to the Peron joki river which rises in Lake Perkjaervi and runs northward to a chain of lakes above Viipuri before emptying into the head of the bay. The purpose of this drive apparently was to protect Russian columns aimed directly at Viipuri. The new Finnish line, from Aeyraepaenjaervi, along the Salmgnkaita to Lake Vuoknsi and then southeastwards toward Taipale on Lake Ladoga, has cut up Russian attacks so successfully that there was a real danger to the columns moving on Viipuri. From the southeast bank of Lake Vuoknsi, the Finns are protected by a wide expanse of lake and can enfilade any Russian columns attacking at Salmgnkaita or Aeyraepaenjaervi.

521 Russian Planes Shot Down, Finns Say.

HELSINKI — (AP) — Finnish sources announced today 521 Russian planes have been shot down since the start of the war.

These sources estimated the total value of these planes at 2,500,000,000 Finnish markka ($42,500,000), or five times the Finnish financial losses due to bombings.

The Finns reported 1,310 Russian tanks have been destroyed or captured. Many were said to have been repaired and used by the Finns.

Citizens who contribute jewelry to national air defense funds will be given iron rings in exchange, the Finns announced. The rings will carry the image of a fighting plane.

ELUDE POLICE IN STOLEN CAR

2 Boys and 2 Girls Escape in Traffic After Officers Catch Up With Them.

er, a boy of high school age, stepped on the accelerator and shot through the red light endangering the lives of those in the auto as well as Miller who was holding onto the door.

As Miller ran back to the cruiser he slipped and fell on the ice. The stolen auto turned and went north on Main and the cruiser followed but lost it in the traffic when other cars and the icy streets made the chase hazardous.

The machine was found abandoned this morning on North Weldon avenue. Identification Officer E. C. Fuller said the steering wheel and smooth parts of the interior had been carefully wiped to erase fingerprints, but he was continuing his investigation in the hope of finding some that had been missed.

Police said the machine was the 18th stolen in the city this month.

Needing 65 per cent approval to pass, the bond issue won only 61.7 per cent in yesterday's election. The vote was 34,087 to 21,098.

Ice and Fog Add to Traffic Woes, More Snow Due

The daily battle against the elements is getting worse!

Mansfielders not only skidded over icy streets and sidewalks on their way to work this morning but groped their way through a typical London fog that engulfed the Richland county area.

And as an added insult following yesterday's heavy snow, the weatherman today predicted more snow. The official forecast said there would be light rain changing to snow tonight with more snow Thursday.

With the temperature at 31 degrees, one degree below freezing at noon today, the mist that fell on the area froze almost immediately and made driving hazardous.

Otto Sprunger, co-operative government weather observer reported today that snow has fallen in the Mansfield area 39 days out of the last 70, the most in recent years. During the period from Dec. 20, the snowfall has totaled 29.4 inches. The normal fall for the period is from 15 to 20 inches.

WELLES TO SEE HITLER FRIDAY

Special Car Provided by Italy Speeds American Diplomat to Berlin Meeting.

with visitors, had been very much interested in Welles. It was believed that he told him that any peace move at this time would be futile.

Hitler Won't Offer Peace Plan, Nazis Say.

(By International News Service)

BERLIN — Chancellor Hitler will advance no peace plans or mediation hints when he confers with American Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles and the Reich does not expect Welles to advance any such plans or hints.

That was the "final verdict" laid down by authoritative German quarters today as Berlin prepared to receive the traveling American diplomat who is due here Friday.

Germany's attitude was made crystal clear as a result of outside allegations circulated recently some of which even asserted that Hitler would present a peace program to Welles.

The German government officially branded such allegations an attempt to sabotage the whole purpose of Welles mission and to "becloud it with multiple motives."

The German press blast against the London Daily Telegraph for claiming that Germany would present a peace plan to Welles has not yet affected the official welcome to be accorded Welles, according to authentic indications, but it can be assumed the rumors might easily cause further souring of the German attitude and increasing difficulties for Welles.

Among already existing handicaps that he faces is the general German mistrust of United States diplomacy in view of the anti-Nazi "campaigning" in America during the past six years.

One qualified source explained: "The British radio, in addition to reporting a Hitler peace plan, last night again claimed that Hitler delegated Premier Mussolini to tell Welles that Germany is ready to seek peace.

"This is deliberate British interference and an attempt to deceive the British public into the illusion that the Reich is weakening and eager to halt war."

SLUMP ENDED?

Steel Magazine Sees Decline at Stage of Being Halted.

NEW YORK—(AP)—First signs that a two-to-three month decline in new steel buying and production might be halted were heralded by "Iron Age" in a weekly survey today.

While calling attention to the "noticeable" change for the better, the steel magazine said the improvement is neither broad enough nor large enough to be conclusive evidence of a general reversal in the recent downtrend.

At the same time, "Iron Age" added:

"Taken in conjunction with other factors, such as the upward trend in automobile manufacturing, an increasingly good export trade, the approach of spring, the stability of the steel price structure, and the fact that the 'Iron Age' steel scrap composite price is unchanged for the first time since mid-January, the betterment in order volume, slight though it is, may be of more significance than can at present be established."
